

Soybean, Oilseed Products Placed Under Export Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, alarmed at soaring livestock feed costs has ordered an immediate embargo on further exports of high-protein soybeans and other oilseed products.

"This is a drastic action," Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz told a news conference Wednesday. "It was not taken lightly."

Butz said, however, that the embargo—directed mainly at soybeans—would not reduce their exports greatly. He estimated that about 30 million bushels of soybeans probably would be saved by the embargo, a quantity he said might be worth $300 million at current prices.

One official said that a savings of 30 million bushels of soybeans represents less than a two weeks supply for U.S. users.

Sales to foreign markets from the 1972 soybean crop were roughly 450 million bushels.

The order was issued by Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent, who said that the embargo would last at least until new crops of soybeans and cottonseed, also covered, are harvested next fall.

Farmers, particularly poultry men, have complained that soybean meal, a prime ingredient in feed preparation, is so costly that they have had to cut back on production.

Cost of Living Council director John T. Dunlop called the embargo a move by the administration to put American consumers ahead of foreign trade.

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade today halted trading for the day in soybeans, soybean oil and soybean meal for future delivery. Traders attributed the move to the export embargo.

George B. Watts, president of the National Broiler Council, told a reporter that the embargo effect might be slow in coming.

"We'll have to wait and see," Watts said. "It may provide relief, especially to those who are out of meal and can buy more if the price goes down. For those who have already stocked up, it could be another story."

Permits Issued

Applicants for a new taxi service (partially funded by the city) for the aged and handicapped flowed into the city collector's office in a steady stream Thursday morning. At least 30 persons, 60 years or older, or handicapped, had applied for the permit by 10 a.m.

and others could be seen going in throughout the rest of the morning. The program will run on a 90-day trial basis and allows holders of the permit to pay only half fare for the taxi ride with the city paying for the other half. The program goes into effect Monday.

Bond Vetoes Bill Providing Subsidies for Public Hospitals

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill providing state subsidies for public hospitals which operate at a deficit has been vetoed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

In a bill-signing flurry Wednesday, Bond signed into law 19 bills, including the last of the appropriations bills for the $2 billion 1973-74 fiscal year budget, and a measure increasing the aid to dependent children by $5 per recipient. About 219,000 persons will be affected.

Of 244 bills sent to the governor, Bond has signed 139 and vetoed three.

Bond vetoed the hospital bill, he said, because it represents state aid to local governments without any controls and would not encourage efficiency.

The bill would have allowed the state to pay 10 per cent of the deficit per hospital. It would have benefited Jackson County hospitals by about $1 million a year. St. Louis city hospitals would have received about $2.2 million and St. Louis County hospitals, $400,000.

The total cost to the state would have been $4.4 million a year, to come from the federal revenue sharing trust fund. Auditing functions required under the bill would go beyond capabilities of the state auditor's office, Bond said.

The governor also vetoed a bill calling for publishing of annual supplements to the state's revised statutes and allowing the Legislative Research Committee to draft rules for bidding on printing of the supplements.

A recent attorney general's opinion said all state printing must be coordinated by the state procurement office and be put out for public bidding.

The aid to dependent children bill would make the payments $38 a month for the mother, $48 a month for the first child and $29 a month for each additional child.

Bond said Missouri ranks 45th in average payments under the program. The bill is expected to cost $11 million a year but was not funded in the session that ended June 15. Bond called for an emergency appropriation in the session beginning in January.

Other bills signed by Bond Wednesday would:

- Require state agencies to purchase recycled paper when it is available.
  - Allow school districts to operate staggered terms for different groups of students and operate schools in the summer.
  - Allow the Missouri Boat Commission to hire 45 new employees, 36 of whom will be patrolmen.
  - Allow state grants for public water supply and sewer districts.
- Bond said he had "strong reservations that the substantial increases in staff are warranted or will be justified," in connection with his signing of a bill giving the legislature a $400,000 increase, to $4.4 million, in yearly operating funds.

Hydrogen Bomb Test Announced by China

TOKYO (AP) — China announced today it tested a hydrogen bomb for defense purposes and to break the "nuclear monopoly" of the superpowers.

The Peking Radio announcement was China's first confirmation of the explosion over the western part of the Chinese mainland Wednesday that several other countries had already detected.

By superpowers, China meant the Soviet Union and the United States. The Chinese test was set off just five days after the U.S.-Soviet summit agreement aimed at preventing nuclear war, and as France was preparing a nuclear test in the Southwest Pacific over opposition of numerous countries and of the World Court.

China and France are the only nuclear powers that have refused to sign the treaty against atomic tests in the atmosphere.

Japan, the only atom-bombed country, expressed regret over the Chinese test and prepared to file a formal protest with Peking. Fallout of nuclear ash from the explosion was expected to hit Japan starting Friday. Unusual changes in atmospheric pressure attributed to the blast were reported at several places in Japan.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said in Washington the blast packed an explosive yield in the range of two to three megatons, the equivalent to two to three million tons of TNT.

This made it one of the most powerful of the 15 Chinese nuclear explosions detected since that country began testing in 1964. A three-megaton blast was touched off in 1970. The previous test, in March 1972, was estimated at 20,000 to 200,000 tons of TNT.

Two Taverns Bombed During Irish Voting

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Bombs exploded in two country towns today as Northern Ireland's voter chose a provincial assembly. Election officials said the voting was brisk.

Guerrillas bombed taverns in Toomebridge, 20 miles west of Belfast, and Creagh, near the border with the Irish republic. There were no casualties.

In the three weeks before the election, 25 persons were killed and nearly 80 bombs were set off.

One of the victims, Roman Catholic Sen. Paddy Wilson, was buried today, two days after he was stabbed to death.

In filling 78 assembly seats, the one million voters have a choice of 210 candidates bearing 19 different party labels. Essentially, the fight is for leadership of the province's Protestant majority.

The new assembly is intended by its British designers to ease the feuding between Protestants and Roman Catholics which over the past four years has cost more than 800 lives and untold damage in bombing and riots.

The pro-British Unionist party, the dominant power here for half a century, has lost some support to the moderate center and a lot to hard-line militancy.

Brian Faulkner, the Unionist leader and former prime minister, will almost certainly win his personal contest for a seat in the assembly but could find himself embarrassingly short of backers.

During the three-week campaign, 25 people have died violently and the province has suffered more than 75 bombings.

Most, but not all, of the bombings have been the work of the Irish Republican Army, which is seeking to force Northern Ireland into unity with the overwhelmingly Catholic Irish Republic to the south.

The British, who dissolved the old Protestant-dominated parliament in March of last year, insist that the executive to be drawn from the new assembly should share political power between Protestant and Catholic representatives. In this way, they hope to lure the Catholic man in the street away from support of the gun power of the IRA.

Ervin Challenges Nixon's Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Watergate Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr. challenged today whether President Nixon did anything "to perform his duty to see that the laws are faithfully executed in respect to the Watergate affair."

The North Carolina Democrat attacked certain White House statements after winning acknowledgement from John W. Dean III that some presidential decisions and White House actions not related to Watergate violated the First and Fourth Amendments to the Constitution.

Questions by Ervin at the fourth day of Dean's testimony appeared aimed at challenging Nixon to testify on the Watergate scandal. Later, committee counsel Samuel Dash said the question of whether to invite the President to testify had not been resolved.

In other highlights from testimony by ousted White House counsel Dean:

—He kept no notes of most of his meetings with Nixon because "some of the things that were being said in these meetings...were very incriminating to the President."

—He believed "I was a restraining influence at the White House. There were many wild and crazy schemes, some of which I have not testified to." He was not asked to elaborate on the schemes.

—The President pulled him aside shortly after the Jan. 20 inauguration ceremony to get "something done" about a demonstrator who had briefly breached a police line during the inaugural parade. A Secret Service agent had earlier told him that the President was quite angry about the incident, Dean said.

Dean insisted in response to a series of questions from the White House that his memory is sharp and his accusations against the President are truthful.

The White House counter-attack was in the form of a series of questions submitted by special presidential counsel J. Fred Buzhardt, and put to Dean by Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii. Inouye said Buzhardt told him today that Nixon had been briefed about the questions.

Dean's grilling is part of a White House counterattack against the 34-year-old former counsel, who in his fourth straight day stuck to his story that Nixon and his top aides plotted together to cover up the wiretapping affair.

Pressed for his recollection of a key meeting with Nixon on Sept. 15, 1972, Dean said he could not repeat the exact words used by Nixon, but said his mind "certainly perceives the message being given."

Dean said conversations in the meetings included discussions of such matters as clemency for E. Howard Hunt and payoffs for convicted Watergate defendants, all mentioned earlier during his previous three days of testimony.

In response to White House questions about how Dean was able to remember what had happened several months or a year ago, Dean said he had kept a file of newspaper stories that often acted as a "trigger" to his memory.

Dean testified he has no knowledge that John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's former top domestic aide, had prior knowledge of the Watergate break-in.

Inouye was posing a series of questions prepared by J. Fred Buzhardt, special counsel to the White House.

The questions followed up on a complex White House memo read by Inouye Wednesday which accused Dean of being a man ready to sacrifice the President to save himself from jail, and which also abandoned any White House support for former attorney general and Nixon campaign chief John N. Mitchell.

Dean has steadily refused since presenting his six-hour case Monday to recant his story that Nixon and his chief aides, particularly Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, were fully aware of the lengthy and elaborate cover-up.

He insisted he was always the messenger and never the master of a conspiracy to conceal the truth.

The ousted White House counsel replied to the administration counterattack with a

Committee Vote Bars Any Indochina Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee moved closer today to forcing President Nixon to choose between stopping the bombing of Cambodia and stopping federal paychecks.

It approved by one vote a sweeping amendment barring funds for U.S. operations anywhere in Indochina, including Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam.

That action came on an 9-8 vote. Then the committee also accepted and sent to the full Senate, where passage is certain, the less inclusive House-passed amendment barring funds for military operations in Cambodia and Laos.

The amendments were included in the Continuing Resolution to fund federal agencies after the current fiscal year ends Saturday night, a measure needed because none of the regular money bills for the new year has yet been enacted.

Senate war critics moved to force the issue with Nixon Wednesday after the President vetoed a bill with the stop-the-bombing provision, and the House upheld his veto.

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., chief sponsor of the antibombing provision in the vetoed $3.4-billion supplementary money bill, immediately won its inclusion in a bill extending the federal debt ceiling, where its fate was uncertain.

The amendment also was included in a third bill, the continuing resolution to provide funding for federal agencies after Saturday night, when the current fiscal year ends. Congress has not approved regular appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1, and government agencies need the continuing resolution if they are to have funds to operate.

As passed by the House Tuesday, the amendment bars funds, both already provided and those appropriated by the resolution, to be used for any U.S. combat activities in or over Cambodia or Laos or off the shores of Cambodia or Laos.

Unlike the vetoed supplemental money measure, the debt ceiling bill and continuing resolution must become law by midnight Saturday for the government to continue to meet its financial obligations.

With a majority of the Senate clearly determined at this point to insist on a halt in bombing, the choice for Nixon could come down to a choice between the continued bombing of Cambodia or funds for federal operations, warned Eagleton and Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

Senate Confirms Schlesinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate confirmed President Nixon's nomination of James R. Schlesinger as secretary of Defense today.

The action came after Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., dropped his objections to the nomination.

Proxmire told the Senate that he is still disturbed about Schlesinger's statement that, under certain conditions, he would recommend resumption of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

In response to Proxmire's request that he elaborate, Schlesinger said the only condition he could foresee for such a recommendation would be "major aggressive actions by North Vietnam which would threaten South Vietnam in violation of the Paris agreements."

Proxmire called that "so generalized" an answer it didn't mean very much.

However, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., acting chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he didn't see how the nominee could answer the question any other way.

Uncovered Manhole Poses Threat

About two weeks ago city employees removed the covering from a manhole on South New York between 13th and 14th to allow gasoline fumes trapped in the sewage system to escape.

Area residents told The Democrat-Capital Thursday that the open hole, about 15-feet deep, presents a hazard to both motorists and pedestrians.

The open hole is marked by a barrel and a flashing light. But even these caution devices aren't always effective, residents said.

"I noticed the light wasn't working the other night," said William McCune, 1611 East 13th. "It could cause a mishap, especially with these cars coming down New York at 90-miles-an-hour some nights."

"It's kind of a dangerous situation," said M. O. Finch, 1600 East 13th. "Sometimes teenagers drive by and tip over the barrel."

And two days ago, said Finch, a dog fell in the hole. "A man and a boy came by in a pickup truck and got it out," he said.

But perhaps the biggest problem, they said, is the danger the hole poses to children walking down South New York to nearby Centennial Park swimming pool at 16th and New York.

"The kids always stop and take a look down there, especially the little ones," Finch said. "There's a lot of child traffic on New York," McCune added.

City Engineer Robert Cunningham said the sewer line had to be ventilated after fumes seeped into the pipes from a leak in a gasoline storage tank at a service station at New York and Broadway.

He added the hole had to be kept open until new tanks were installed at the station.

"If we knew it would have been this long we would have placed a five-foot sewer pipe on top of the hole," Cunningham said.

Danger Area

An uncovered manhole at South New York between 13th and 14th poses a safety hazard to small children and motorists. The cover on the hole was removed to allow gas fumes to escape from the sewage pipes below.

"We've done that before...and plan to do that in the future in similar situations."

Cunningham said the covering would be placed on the hole in "one or two days."

Patrolmen Try To Cut Gasoline Use

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri highway patrolmen have been trying for two weeks to use less gasoline.

"What we've done is try to cut usage by 10 per cent," said Lt. Col. Walter Snyder, assistant patrol superintendent. "We've asked them to cut their routine patrol speed to 50 miles an hour and also to stay on stationary observation 10 minutes of each hour."

Results will be studied when the first month of the new routine ends July 12.

Snyder said the patrol has been able to get gasoline so far but has had some trouble in some areas, especially south-west Missouri.

He also noted that 1973 model patrol cars go only 9.3 miles on a gallon of gas, compared to 10 miles by the 1972 models.

Illinois Woman Is Fatally Burned

GODFREY, Ill. (AP) — Adele M. Fink, 67, was burned fatally Wednesday when fire destroyed her home here, police said.

A witness to the blaze told authorities he saw lighting strike the house, but police listed the cause of the fire as undetermined.

New Phone Books Now Distributed

More than 23,881 copies of the new Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. phone book will be delivered by the end of the month in Sedalia, Knob Noster and LaMonte. The distribution is currently underway.

"The phone book is an excellent indicator of growth in Sedalia," Bob Johnson, company manager here, said. "This year's book has four more pages of alphabetical listings than the 1972 directory. That's more than 600 new listings."

"We've seen a healthy gain in Sedalia area business growth, too," he added. "This year's Yellow Pages supplement contains 11 pages of additional business listings, the largest one-year gain in recent history."

The telephone book also includes rate periods for long distance calls and complete instructions for "one-plus" dialing long distance calls. Area codes for the entire country and items of general interest are also to be found.

Pulaski County Bank Official Is Indicted by Jury

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted Charles Gene Bollinger, 39, of Waynesville, Mo., president of the First National Bank of Pulaski County.

Bollinger was charged with misapplying $10,638 in bank funds from March 3, 1968, through June 27, 1969.

The five-count indictment also alleged that Bollinger lied to a federal grand jury March 7 when he denied signing the name of Elmer Pinkerton on an account card of the Acme Sand & Gravel Co. of Waynesville.

Adventure Book Tops List Here

The Sedalia Public Library has placed "The Poseidon Adventure" on top of its list of 10 best sellers during June, it was reported by Don Morton, librarian.

Other volumes on the list include "Once Is Not Enough," Susann; "Go Ask Alice," anonymous; "Laughing All the Way," Howard; "The Matlock Paper," Ludlum; "Foxfire Book," Wigginton; "Law and Order," Uhnak; "Weight Watchers Program Cookbook," Nidetch; "Odessa File," Forsyth; and "Evening in Byzantium," Shaw.

New fiction works available are "The Covenant," Mitchell; "Farewell, Frank Merriwell," Zuckerman; "Breakfast of Champions," Vonnegut; "In an Unknown House," Hitchens; "Return the Innocent Earth," Dykeman; "Curse of the Kings," Holt; "Decline and Fall of America," De Maria; "Tightrope Men," Bagley; "Discoverer of the Past," Hendricks; and "A Death of Dreams," Hoffman.

Listed in the new non-fiction category are "The Joy of Camping," Langer; "New York Times Garden Book," Faust;

"How to Start and Operate a Day Care Home," Griffin; "Lazarus and His Beloved," Gibran; "Postoria: Its First 50 Years," Weatherman; "The Roosevelt of Hyde Park," Roosevelt; "Nunaga: Ten Years of Eskimo Life," Pryde; "Creative Art of Needlepoint Tapestry," Fisher; "The F.D.R. Memoirs," Asbell; and "Low Man Rides Again," Smith.

Listed for the first time were five new "large print books." They are, "Dumb Witness," Christie; "Second Superintendent West," Creasey; "The Next One to Die," Gunn; "Police at the Funeral," Allingham; and "Wildfire at Midnight," Stewart.

Community Affairs Group Given Challenge by Bond

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A group of local government leaders were challenged by Gov. Christopher S. Bond Tuesday to become a forum for local problems that can be solved by the state or federal governments.

The new 10-member Council on Community Affairs met for the first time at the call of the governor.

"The council should serve as a communications system to assure that state agency programs affecting local governments are tailored to local needs, to inform local communities about available state and national resources, and develop workable state legislation for local government," Bond said.

The council, working with officials of the state Department of Community Affairs, will hold regular meetings to examine the problems of local governments and make recommendations.

One of the council members, Lawrence Roos, St. Louis County supervisor, said he saw the council as an opportunity to establish "a partnership instead of an adversary relationship" between state and local governments.

Another member, Joseph Badaracco, president of the St. Louis Board of Aldermen, said he saw possibilities for the council to unify support for local government.

Other council members include:

Independence Mayor Phil Weeks, Kansas City Mayor Pro Tem Richard Berkley, Adair County Collector Robert F. Love of Kirksville, Springfield Mayor James Payne, Franklin County Presiding Judge Ralph N. Smith of Union, Montgomery City Mayor W. J. Niedergerke, and Poplar Bluff City Manager David Pence.

Drug Use By Drivers Is Studied

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Investigators found evidence of drugs in the bodies of nearly 28 per cent of 410 fatally injured automobile drivers in the last two years.

The Midwest Research Institute, under sponsorship of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, is making a study of drug abuse in automobile accidents.

Dr. E.J. Woodhouse, MRI chemist who headed the study, said about 22 per cent of the dead drivers had been smoking marijuana, compared to 3.7 per cent of drivers who were stopped at random and asked to take part in the test.

There isn't enough evidence to show a definite relationship between drugs and driving deaths, Woodhouse warned. Mainly, that's because there is no firm data on drug use among living drivers.

The marijuana test isn't good enough, he said.

"It will tell you whether somebody has been smoking marijuana, but it won't tell you how much and the reliability of the test is yet to be established," Woodhouse said.

The study encountered barbiturates as often as marijuana—in 84 of the dead 410 drivers. Amphetamines were found in 27, the common sedative meprbamate in 15.

"Because of legal problems we gathered most of the figures for living drivers in Nebraska, while most of the data for dead drivers came from Oregon, Washington, California and Florida," Woodhouse said.

Sterilization of Two Young Girls Results In $1 Million Law Suit

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A federal ban on use of a birth control drug led to the sterilization of two young girls and a $1 million suit claiming the operations were performed without their consent, an anti-poverty worker says.

Orelia Dixon, head of the Montgomery Family Planning Center which arranged for the operations for Mary Alice and Minnie Relf, said the girls had been getting periodic injections to keep from getting pregnant.

Mary Alice is 12. The suit lists Minnie's age as 14, but Mrs. Dixon said health records show the girl is 16.

Mrs. Dixon said the drug was ordered off the market recently by the Food and Drug Administration, and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare threatened to cut off funds for the center if use of the drug was continued.

Mrs. Dixon declined to identify the drug involved, but a state health official identified it as Depo Provera. He said it was banned on the grounds that it produced an abnormally high female hormone count.

"We talked to them about the other alternatives that they could possibly use," Mrs. Dixon said of the Relf girls.

She said it was agreed the girls would have tubular ligation operations performed, which would leave them sterile. She said the center had arranged sterilization for 11 persons during the past year, not all minors.

She refused to comment further on the case.

The girls were sterilized two weeks ago. On Tuesday, their father, Lonnie Relf, filed a $1 million damage suit in U.S. District Court, claiming that the girls did not understand before hand the effects of the operation.

Among the defendants named in the suit were the Family Planning Center and the Montgomery Community Action Agency, which administers the family planning program.

The suit alleges that the girls never knew what was going to happen to them when they went to the hospital where the operation was performed and that their mother, who is illiterate, marked her "X" on consent forms thinking the girls were going to get more shots.

Mrs. Dixon denied the girls or their mother did not understand what was going to happen.

"These girls knew full well what happened to them and their mother understood exactly what she was doing," Mrs. Dixon said.

"We have never sterilized anyone unless they ask to be. We explain it carefully to them and it is entirely their own decision. We never force them."

Girls Are Suing

Two young Montgomery, Ala., girls, Minnie Relf, 12, standing, say in a $1 million damage suit that they were sterilized without their knowledge last week at a Montgomery hospital. The suit filed through their father, Lonnie Relf, foreground, said that their mother, seated at left, gave permission for the operation without knowing what she had signed.

Says Judge Can't Prosecute Her

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—Sharon K. Zimmerman, 25, of Eldon, Mo., told Judge J. R. Russell in municipal court Wednesday:

"You can't prosecute me. I'm a superior student."

Judge Russell then learned from Miss Zimmerman that she had been a patient at the state mental hospital in Fulton, Mo., for 11 years before her dismissal in January.

The judge promptly asked Wyandotte County to determine if Miss Zimmerman is competent to stand trial on a drug possession charge. Municipal court lacks power to order a psychiatric study.

A city policeman was suspended temporarily Wednesday after Miss Zimmerman accused him of sexual misconduct in the jail where she has been held since her arrest June 19.

Shortage of Rail Cars Wheat Market Problem

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — A scarcity of box and hopper cars to transport Kansas' massive 1973 wheat crop to market is evident as the harvest approaches the halfway mark but railroad men believe they'll be able to handle the crush.

Santa Fe Railway, one of the two major haulers of the Kansas wheat crop, has gone to a prorationing of its cars in its battle to keep up with the demand but still feels it will meet the challenge.

Both the Santa Fe and the Union Pacific were short of cars in Kansas early this week. Whether that shortage worsens or improves depends upon the demand for cars—whether the farmers sell their wheat or hold it for higher prices—and how rapidly they can be marshalled from other areas of the nation.

Ray McKinley, director of the department of transportation for the Kansas Corporation Commission, reported that at the start of this week, Santa Fe informed him it had orders in Kansas for 730 box cars and 3,167 hopper cars.

Santa Fe had supplied 394 box cars and 544 hopper cars to fill these orders. The road was short 1,471 hopper cars in its Plains Division (Southern Kansas) and 775 hopper cars in its Mid-Division (Central Kansas).

The Union Pacific reported it was short 340 hopper cars and 52 box cars.

As John S. Reed of Chicago, Santa Fe president, told a Salina audience last Saturday, "If the farmers decided to unload it all at once, we'd be in trouble. It would be like everyone picking up the phone and trying to make a call at the same time."

However, as long as everyone doesn't have to move his wheat at precisely the same time, Santa Fe officials believe they can meet the demand and get the Kansas wheat crop—estimated to hit 354 million bushels—transported to market.

"Our people still seem to feel we're going to be able to get through this thing without a critical shortage," said Loren Simmons, Santa Fe spokesman here.

"When it gets tight, in order to be fair, we try to prorate cars so everybody gets some cars," Simmons said in explaining the Santa Fe policy for distributing the cars it has available.

The over-all Santa Fe distribution system is controlled in Chicago, where car orders are relayed so a central office knows where the peak demand is and can help divert cars from other regions to the peak area.

All car records are kept in computers, so the Santa Fe knows at all times where its cars are, whether they're loaded or empty, etc.

Simmons said as the wheat harvest approaches, Santa Fe directs its attention toward getting the needed rail cars south to Texas where the harvest begins.

Then, as the harvest moves northward, the railroad's attention shifts progressively northward.

"In past years, we've tried to stockpile some cars in the mid-west for the harvest but this year we couldn't do it because of the job of moving the export grain (to gulf ports for shipment to Russia and China)," Simmons said.

Santa Fe has a rough idea of how many cars a given terminal has needed in the past, so if some operator orders an inflated number of cars in order to try to get all he wants under the prorationing system, the railroad uses its judgment in how many cars it actually supplies.

Brazilian Men Resorting More To Plastic Surgery

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazilian men who feel that a younger look helps them in business are resorting more to plastic surgery, two leading surgeons here report.

"A man can't look too old in some executive positions," says Dr. Ivo Pitanguy, Brazil's most famous plastic surgeon. "When you reach 40 and still must compete in business, you have to look younger to do it."

About 12,000 operations are performed here every year.

Another plastic surgeon, Dr. Pedro Valente, says: "Right now, 20 per cent of the people undergoing surgery here to make them look younger are men. A decade ago it was 5 per cent."

These men are having many of the same operations the ladies have been raving about for years. Most are about 40.

"Most requests we get for executives set 35-38 as a maximum age," said Henry Charles of the Rio office of Snelling & Snelling, a worldwide employment agency with headquarters in the United States. "After 40, it becomes more difficult for a man to find a job."

Plastic surgeons say they can slow a man's apparent aging with a standard facelift and touchups every 10 years afterward.

A facelift in Rio, including the eyes, costs $2,500-$3,000. Without the eyes, it's $1,000 less. A slimmer abdomen costs around $2,500. About $2,000 takes care of a man's flabby chest.

Bombing Decision Welcomed

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The government gave a predictable welcome today to President Nixon's decision to continue bombing in Cambodia.

It said this could enable its forces to control the military situation and shorten the war.

Nixon's decision coincided with the Phnom Penh command announcing a series of offensive operations to recapture lost territory in several areas. The operations reportedly were on a relatively minor scale.

Maj. Gen. Sosthene Fernandez, commander of the armed forces, said continuing American air bombardment will inflict heavy losses on Khmer Rouge insurgents and their North Vietnamese allies, "and the war will end very quickly."

The war has been going on for more than three years and U.S. bombing during that time has failed to prevent the loss of all but about 15 per cent of Cambodia's territory to the Communists.

Meanwhile, U.S. tactical air strikes were continuing only nine miles from the city, and the thud and rumble of exploding bombs rattled Phnom Penh's doors and windows.

Nine miles south of the capital, government troops were reported in action around the district towns of Kompong Kantuot and Day Kraham in an area which has been under increasing insurgent pressure during the last week.

Communist-led troops just west of Kompong Kantuot have been moving in on a key junction between north-south Highway 3 and provincial Rte. 38, which links it with Highway 2 to the east.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese military command claimed 73 more Communist truce violations during the 24 hours ending at dawn. A communique said in one of them Communist troops shot and killed a hamlet chief and five civilians and wounded two other civilians after penetrating a hamlet in the Mekong Delta about 75 miles southwest of Saigon.

Meanwhile, the Viet Cong charged that the South Vietnamese government obstructed an investigation by the International Commission of Control and Supervision into "illegal land-grabbing operations" by government forces in Communist-controlled areas of the delta.

Settlement Has Been Reached With Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters Union and trucking industry reached tentative agreement today on a new 33-month contract providing wage increases of less than seven per cent for 400,000 drivers nationwide.

The agreement came following an all-night bargaining session at Teamster headquarters.

A formal announcement was expected later in the day. Neither union nor industry officials would comment.

However, sources close to the negotiation said the contract calls for a total wage increase of 95 cents per hour spread over 33 months for the truckers who currently average $6.16 per hour.

The drivers will receive 35 cents per hour beginning July 1 and an additional 30 cents per hour in each of the remaining years of the contract.

In addition, the union won cost of living raises not to exceed 11 cents per hour, the sources said. Improved vacation and holiday schedules and health and welfare benefits also were included.

The executive policy committee and board of directors of Trucking Employers Inc., bargaining arm for the industry, scheduled meetings today to vote on the tentative agreement.

The Teamsters are expected to begin the ratification process immediately in order to put the pact into effect before Saturday's midnight expiration of the contract.

Although the new contract exceeds the government's flexible standard for wages and benefits—5.5 per cent for the wages plus 0.7 per cent for fringes—no challenge is expected from the Cost of Living Council. Sources were unable to put a total figure on the contract but it appeared to be in line with recent settlements in other industries.

White House officials have said they regarded the trucking talks as the most critical in this year's heavy round of bargaining which affects nearly five million workers. The impact of higher trucking costs have a ripple effect on food and other products.

Brewery Strike Negotiations Set For Today

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Negotiators for the Anheuser-Busch brewery here and two striking unions were to meet today for the first time since the unions walked off the job Tuesday.

The session was called Wednesday by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

The St. Louis brewery, the largest in the country, was forced to halt operations when members of the Beer Bottlers Local 187 and Lab Technicians Local 262 walked off the job in a dispute over improvements in their retirement plans.

The strike has caused St. Louis's largest liquor store chain to begin rationing its stock of Anheuser-Busch products.

"We want to give everybody a chance to get a little bit while it lasts," said Eugene C. Weissman, president of the 9-0-5 chain. He said supplies at all his stores will be gone by early next week if the strike lasts.

The unions, which had been working under contracts that expired March 1, have demanded retirement program improvements to match similar improvements granted other brewery unions in recent negotiations.

The company has contended, however, that the other unions were granted the improvements, which call for five years full pay after retirement at age 60, because many of their jobs are being phased out by automation and modernization of plant equipment.

The strike has idled some 5,000 employees at the brewery.

Arms Reduction Talks Are Planned

VIENNA (AP) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact announced today they would discuss "mutual reduction of forces and armaments and associated measures in central Europe" in a conference beginning here Oct. 30.

The announcement was made in a final communique issued after a 30-minute session of the 19 delegations of the two military pacts. They concluded almost five months of preparatory talks on the issue of troop cuts.

The communique added that the participants in the preparatory meetings agreed that "the general objective of the negotiations will be to contribute to a more stable relationship and to the strengthening of peace."

The forecast was that the troop cut talks would be tough and long.

The communique left out the word "balanced" for the cuts to be discussed. The label for the talks had been "mutual and balanced forces reductions" when the preparatory round opened Jan. 31.

But Henry Kissinger said at the end of the Nixon-Brezhnev talks a few days ago that adjectives were not important and that the Soviets had pledged to enter "serious negotiations" on the troop cut issue.

The date and place of the fall talks had been a foregone conclusion after they were mentioned in a summary of the Nixon-Brezhnev talks. The final communique on the preliminary round here merely put the NATO seal of approval on it.

NATO had pressed for a fall date and the Soviet agreement with it was considered a concession.

Lumber Yard Fire Call One of Three Answered in City

Sedalia firemen responded to another alarm in a series of fires that have plagued Benson's Lumber Co., 2400 Clinton Road. The blaze occurred at 8:45 p.m. Wednesday night as a workman accidentally set fire to lumber while cutting scrap metal with a torch. The incident was not related to the two recent fires in which arson was suspected. No estimate of damage was made.

Two fire runs were made early Thursday morning by city firemen. The first, at 5:42 a.m., was to Campbell's Hawthorne House, a rest home at 1401 West Third. There was no fire and it is believed by firemen that low voltage in a transformer accidentally set off the alarm. Missouri Public Service Co. was notified of the incident.

At 4:09 a.m. firemen were called to 420 North Prospect where they found a large chair on fire in the yard. Ivy Hoskin, a resident, reported that he was awakened by smoke, ran downstairs, found the chair burning on the porch and shoved it into the yard. One or two cigarette butts were reportedly found where the chair had been sitting on the porch. There was no damage to the home.

Senate OK's Social Security Increase Rider

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a 5.6 per cent cost-of-living increase for persons on Social Security, a move that appears to have a good chance for House acceptance.

As adopted by the Senate 72 to 17, the higher Social Security payments would not result in increased payroll deductions.

If approved by the House, the increase would face an uncertain fate in the White House. Nixon administration officials have opposed the higher payments.

Managers of the measure said they would try to arrange a Senate-House conference today.

The Social Security hike was a rider, attached with many others, to a bill that would extend the present $465-billion national debt ceiling for 5 months.

This ceiling drops to $400 billion at midnight Saturday, unless the bill is enacted. The government could not meet its financial obligations under the lower figure.

The Senate remained in session until 11 p.m. Wednesday taking 15 separate roll call votes to complete action on the debt limit measure.

Other riders would liberalize benefits for aged, blind and disabled persons on the welfare rolls; try again to enact the ban on use of federal funds to bomb Cambodia, which President Nixon vetoed yesterday on an appropriations bill; restrict sharply the President's impoundment powers; revise the $1 tax checkoff presidential campaign financing plan; fix a $268.7-billion spending ceiling for fiscal 1974; increase from $2,100 to $3,000-a-year the amount a Social Security recipient can earn without losing any retirement payments, and liberalize the emergency unemployment compensation program for long-term jobless persons.

Nixon's

new offensive of his own before the Senate Watergate committee Wednesday.

He produced what he said was the official White House black list of the President's enemies in Congress and in politics, business, labor, journalism, the universities and the theater.

And Dean supplied the committee with copies of White House memos that indicated preparations were being made two years ago to "use the available federal machinery to screw our political enemies."

Meanwhile, in a surprise move, Frederick C. LaRue, a former Nixon campaign aide and White House consultant, was permitted to plead guilty in U.S. District Court to a single conspiracy charge in exchange for his promise to testify against others involved in the Watergate scandal. In return, prosecutors had agreed not to press any other charges against him.

Dean is to return to the Senate witness stand for a fourth day today to undergo a cross-examination, based on a series of questions written by White House special counsel J. Fred Buzhardt.

In San Clemente, Calif., a White House spokesman again refused to predict the President might comment on Dean's testimony. Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Nixon did not want to respond "in a fragmentary way" and that comments "while the hearings are in progress would not be beneficial to the committee."

The White House questions will be put to Dean by Democratic Sen. Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii.

It was learned that when that process is completed, Inouye plans to ask Dean another series of questions—on Dean's knowledge of the complicated financial transactions that enabled the President to buy his ocean-side estate at San Clemente, Calif.

It was understood Dean has new information about the deal, and was willing to talk about it with the committee.

Wednesday, the White House provided the first serious challenge to Dean's position.

In a statement read to Dean by Inouye, Buzhardt asserted that Dean was the prime mover in the cover-up, along with former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, whom Buzhardt called Dean's patron, and Jeb Stuart Magruder, the former deputy of the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Later, it was announced that Mitchell's testimony, originally scheduled for this week, will be postponed until July 10, when the committee reconvenes after the Independence Day recess.

"There is no reason to doubt that John Dean was the principal actor in the Watergate cover-up, and that, while other motivations may have played a part, he had great interest in covering up for himself ...." the Buzhardt statement said.

The White House statement, and the questions that went with it, drew the battle lines sharply between the President's credibility and that of the 34-year-old lawyer he fired just two months ago.

Dean insisted in reply that there was just no way that he could have covered up the Watergate facts and deceived his White House superiors in the process. He said that authority for the cover-up had to originate exactly where he placed it—the top layer of the White House hierarchy.

Dean has testified repeatedly that he made progress reports on the cover-up to then White House chief of staff H.R. Halde-man and John D. Ehrlichman, the former chief domestic adviser, and received instructions from them.

Earlier, Dean fenced with Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., who, in his questioning, did not mention that Dean has testified that Gurney was the only committee member in whose political loyalty the President expressed complete confidence.

Gurney used the word embezzlement to describe Dean's admission that he had used $4,850 in campaign funds to pay for his wedding and honeymoon last October.

Gurney's questioning produced another admission from Dean that, at the time he replaced the money with a personal check, he had only $1,625.12 in his checking account.

But Dean refused to say he had stolen the money. He said his bank had previously honored overdrafts and, "I was quite prepared to make the money whole at any time."

Then Dean introduced the documents that were immediately dubbed, "The Enemies List."

It contained nearly 200 different names of wealthy, celebrated and influential men and women. Dean said all of them were in White House files entitled Opponents List and Political Enemies Project.

Dean testified that he was the author of a plan submitted to Haldeman, Ehrlichman and other White House officials to examine the lives of those listed to determine how the government might best move against them.

New Plans Made for Festival

The Scott Joplin Ragtime Festival Committee met Tuesday to make further plans for the Sedalia festival, scheduled for July of 1974. Festival coordinator Larry Melton reported that the U. S. Postal Service had rejected a proposal for a Scott Joplin commemorative stamp to be issued next year, the 75th anniversary of the "Maple Leaf Rag."

Melton said the Postal Service had merely sent back a form letter saying the idea had not been accepted. Melton had assisted Postmaster Maurice Hogan in preparing a prospectus on the stamp, including a possible design. The committee agreed that other approaches should be explored in promoting the stamp, despite the Postal Service's letter.

Melton proposed that the grandstand at the State Fairgrounds be the location for major evening events for the 3-day festival. The committee agreed to this and made plans to explore ways in which the Main Street area where the old Maple Leaf Club was located could be used for other day-time festival activities.

Board member Adam Fischer was directed to register the festival committee as a not-for-profit corporation with the state. Committee assignments were made as follows:

Finance, Harry Browder, John Ellison and Jim Denny; program, William C. Hopkins; publicity, Doug Kneibert. Other committees will be named as the need arises and as other persons are added to the festival committee, chairman Ed Kehde indicated.

Other members of the executive committee are Mrs. Dorothy Kitchen and Mrs. Carol Barnes.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is that boxes of cards (greeting, Christmas, assorted and so on) do not have a couple of extra envelopes in them. Everyone makes a boner and desperately needs an extra envelope. — MRS. F. W. L. Sr.

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Mrs. L. who wants to use her faded plastic flower arrangements outdoors and would like to restore the colors. Year after year we keep the same ones in front of the house and also on our family cemetery plot looking fresh by spray painting them. I thoroughly wash and dry the arrangement, place the stems in the ground so each part stands upright and then spray the flowers any desired color and the leaves green. With a bit of practice they look brand new. If you prefer, a plastic bag could be put over parts to be sprayed a different color, but I do not find this necessary. — MRS. A. T.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. L. can restore the colors to her faded artificial flowers and find they stay bright for about a year and then they can be redone. Remove flowers from their stems and also remove the green calyx at the base of each flower. Push long finishing nails through inverted egg cartons and push a flower onto each nail. Spray them with quick drying, NON-FADING interior-exterior acrylic enamel, being careful to reach all surfaces of the petals. When completely dry, push flowers back on to the stems. — HEATHER

Kansas Farmers Promised Fuel By Major Company

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major oil company has promised 300,000 gallons of fuel a month for Kansas farmers in addition to its regular allotment for the state. Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said Wednesday.

The extra supply will include 200,000 gallons of gasoline and 100,000 gallons of diesel fuel. The senator said farmers and dealers needing fuel for the wheat harvest should continue to apply to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office in Manhattan, Kan.

Heroin Shipment Seized At Airport

CHICAGO (AP) — Police seized a shipment of heroin and cocaine with an estimated street value of $1.5 million Wednesday night at O'Hare International Airport. The narcotics arrived on a Continental Airlines flight from Los Angeles via Kansas City.

Police charged Hassan Miah, 35, of Chicago, with possession of a controlled substance.

One and a half pounds of Mexican heroin valued at $1 million and one pound of cocaine valued at $500,000 were found in a brown suitcase, police said.

Berrigan Cleared Of Three Counts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal appeals court has cleared the Rev. Philip Berrigan of three of four convictions of smuggling letters out of a federal prison to plan antiwar activities.

The 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals also overturned on Wednesday all three similar convictions against Sister Elizabeth McAlister, a nun who recently married Berrigan.

Berrigan, 49, was paroled from federal prison last year. He had been serving a six-year term for destroying draft records in Catonsville, Md., in 1968. The letter-smuggling convictions were being served currently.

Sister Elizabeth had been free on bail. Reversal of the convictions ends the case against her.

Berrigan, Sister Elizabeth and five others had been accused of conspiring to kidnap presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger, blow up heating tunnels in Washington, D.C., and vandalize draft offices around the country to force an end to U.S. involvement in Indochina.

The Caspian Sea, 143,550 square miles, is actually a lake on the Asia-Europe continent.

Official of Communist Party In U.S. Dies

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Earl Russell Browder, Communist Party candidate for president in 1936 and 1940, is dead at age 82.

Browder, who was general secretary of the Communist Party in the United States from 1930 to 1945, died in his sleep Wednesday at his home here.

The Communist Party became the Communist Political Association in 1944. In 1946 Browder was expelled from the association as a "revisionist" for supporting President Roosevelt's policies.

He served prison terms from 1917 through 1920 and in 1941 and 1942 for opposing American war policy.

From 1926 to 1929 he served as director of the Pan-Pacific Trade Union Secretariat in Shanghai, helping to organize the Communist drive in China. He was a member of the executive committee of the Communist International Movement from 1935 to 1940.

Earl Russell Browder

A memorial service is scheduled Saturday at the Woodrow Wilson School for Public and International Affairs at Princeton. The funeral will be private.

Golden Age of United Nations Interest Faded

By GEORGE BRIA
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — "My Hooper rating was just after Bob Hope and apparently in front of the wrestlers," Gladwyn Jebb recalled. "A taxi driver said that, when I came on, they turned off the wrestlers."

Jebb, now Lord Gladwyn, reminisced with a group recently about the golden age of interest in the United Nations when television coverage of its main performers rivaled that given actors and athletes.

Few persons today can quickly name the just-retired British ambassador, Sir Colin Crowe, much less his successor, Sir Donald Maitland. Nor does the name of the American delegate, John A. Scali, come quickly to mind.

It is not necessarily a downgrading of mission heads, but it clearly is a different scene.

Gone are personalities like Henry Cabot Lodge, Adlai E. Stevenson, Lester B. Pearson of Canada, Andrei Vishinsky of Russia, Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium, V. K. Krishna Menon of India. The Soviet ambassador, Jacob Malik, 66, is a lone link with the glamorous past. In a way, he symbolizes the transformation of the United Nations.

SAILORS, TAKE OWN WARNINGS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Small boat sailors are going to have to display a little more initiative hereafter in figuring out the weather. Instead of issuing "small craft warnings," the National Weather Service is going to broadcast "small craft advisories" to reflect more accurately the true nature of their content.

It will be up to the boatmen to decide whether the observed or predicted conditions constitute real danger to them.

In 1950, Malik was absent from the historic meeting of the Security Council that approved the dispatch of troops to counter the North Korean invasion of South Korea. The Soviet Union was boycotting the council in a huff over Russian failure to get Red China seated. With no Soviet veto to stand in the way, the council was able to act quickly when the Korean War broke out in June.

As Jebb recalls it, "Malik came back in August and tried to undo everything we had done. Well, there was a hideous row, and it was the first time there was a national hook-up, as they called it then, on television in America and it was the first time everybody saw what was happening at the Security Council and there was great excitement."

Visiting the United Nations a few months ago after 18 years absence, Jebb said: "I must say it seems to me to be a rather different place. In those days, it was a kind of morning of the world. Aggression has now faded out, it's no longer the main issue; and the main issue, as I understand it, is all kinds of other issues such as pollution and overpopulation and the poisoning of the world generally."

But Malik, here again since 1968 after stints as ambassador to Britain and deputy Soviet foreign minister, challenges Jebb's view. In 1950, the Soviet Union was downgrading the United Nations. Today, it has plans for expanded housing for its big staff in the Riverdale section of New York as, among other things, it carries on intense propaganda warfare with its former friends, the Chinese. Both woo the Africans, powerful blocks in U.N. councils.

"In 1945, the United Nations membership was 51, now it is 132," Malik told a group of American editors. "The NATO countries headed by the United States have irretrievably lost their former domineering position. The United Nations has become more democratic."

"The United States is pursuing a course for depoliticizing the United Nations contrary to its charter and its primary goal of saving mankind from the horrors of war. The U.S. interest in the United Nations has been narrowed down to matters such as drugs, pollution of the environment, population control, terrorism, hijackings and so forth.

"Those who are inclined to have the United Nations deal only with this kind of question are, in fact, trying to turn the United Nations into yet another specialized technical and economic agency. That is to say: to depoliticize it."

Scali, denying a loss of U.S. concern for the peacekeeping role of the United Nations, has said, nevertheless, that he's a "pragmatic man" specializing in "the art of what works" and that he wants "to move the United Nations toward the real world" to counter the disillusionment of many Americans in the world organization.

Drying His Pants

After a dip in a pool in St. Louis with his pants on, this young man decided to dry them by walking around with a towel wrapped around him and carrying the stiff, wet pants on a stick over his shoulder. (UPI)

Woman Files Complaint; Declares Movie Obscene

KIRKWOOD, Mo. (AP) — A Clayton grandmother filed a complaint with the police department of this St. Louis suburb Tuesday against a "revolting" movie in what she called a test of the Supreme Court's recent ruling on obscenity.

Billie Lasker, who has been a leading opponent of obscenity and who succeeded in having "The Happy Hooker" banned from St. Louis County bookstores, made the complaint to Police Chief Daniel Linza by telephone, claiming the R-rated "Harrod Experiment" should not be shown in Kirkwood.

"There's nothing but complete nudity in this movie. It's simply revolting," said Mrs. Lasker, who said she saw the film after hearing complaints about it.

"It shouldn't be rated 'R,'" it shouldn't be rated "X" and it shouldn't even be shown. I'm hoping the police will do something about it so we won't have to protest it," warned the woman who has led protest marches on bookstores in the past.

Linza said he planned to seek help from the city's library board to review the film.

"With the new Supreme Court ruling, it throws the burden right on us," the chief commented. The high court ruled last week that community standards, rather than national ones, should be used to determine if material is pornographic.

Linza said he was turning to library officials because of their experience in censoring books. "I don't know if this is a good way to do it," he said. "If they're not amenable to the idea, I don't know what we'll do."

Rich Hobe, manager of the theater where "Harrod Experiment" is currently playing, said he does not agree with Mrs. Lasker's evaluation of the picture, "and from the crowds we've had, I don't think many of them would agree either."

"We feel she's going a bit overboard since the court ruling, just trying to get more publicity," Hobe said of Mrs. Lasker's complaint.

More than 10,000 persons have viewed the picture since it opened June 15, he noted, and only one has asked for a refund, claiming the film should have been rated "X."

"And from past experience, if a movie is bad, even just a bad plot, I will hear about it," Hobe said. "From the size of the crowds, it looks like the movie will be showing here through July."

Uruguayan Congress Replaced

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Uruguayan Congress was dissolved Wednesday for the first time in 40 years and replaced by a Council of State.

The government said one of the council's first jobs will be to reform the constitution and submit it to a plebiscite at the proper time.

In its decree, the government accused Congress of having failed to remove the immunity of leftist Sen. Enrique Erro. The state radio said a warrant has been issued for his arrest on charges of "subversive association."

Erro, of the Broad Leftist Front, has been accused of links with the Tupamaro guerrillas. He is currently in Buenos Aires where he attended the arrival of former Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron from Spain after 18 years of exile.

In April, the government asked that Erro's immunity be lifted. The request was voted down in the Senate, and an initiative in the House of Deputies to impeach him also failed.

The decree dissolving Congress was signed by President Juan D. Bordaberry, Interior Minister Nestor Boletini and Defense Minister Walter Ravenna.

The move had been expected overnight.

Solar Eclipse Friday

Starting at sunrise Friday, near the border between Brazil and Guyana, the moon's shadow will cut a moving 161-mile-wide swath of darkness across the mid-Atlantic, Africa and the Indian Ocean before it leaves the earth around sunset south of the Seychelles.

The heart of the shadow's passage across the earth, near the junction of Algeria, Mali and Niger, will be plunged into darkness for seven minutes, 3.9 seconds — longer than all but two other solar eclipses during the last 1,433 years.

Political Surveillance Probe Hinted by Source

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate special prosecutor's office is debating whether to use John W. Dean III's testimony as a springboard into an investigation of political surveillance during Democratic administrations, according to informed sources.

A spokesman for the prosecutor said Tuesday that he could not "comment on testimony in progress or on what matters might become the subject of investigation."

But sources close to the prosecutor's office said the staff was closely monitoring Dean's testimony, examining references to purported FBI political activity in previous administrations and debating whether they fall within the mandate given prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Dean told the Senate Watergate committee Monday that William C. Sullivan, former associate director of the FBI, had told him the bureau had been used "for political purposes by past administrations."

The former White House counsel quoted President Nixon as telling him "he was convinced that he had been wire-tapped in 1968."

Dean testified that he pressed Sullivan for examples of FBI political activity and Sullivan sent him a memorandum. The Washington Star-News said the memorandum described an investigation conducted after the 1968 election of Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew.

Sullivan said the investigation was ordered by President Lyndon B. Johnson and nothing adverse was found, according to the newspaper.

Guidelines given Cox by Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson authorize him to investigate and prosecute all offenses arising out of the 1972 election, including "all allegations involving the President, members of the White House staff or presidential appointees."

The sources said that, if Cox's office looks into political use of the FBI or other government investigative and law enforcement agencies, such as the Internal Revenue Service, the probe probably would not be directed toward criminal prosecution.

An investigation more likely would be aimed at disclosure with the results included in one of the periodic reports Cox has said he might issue, the sources said.

Dean told the committee that the matter of FBI surveillance came up during a discussion with the President at the time of the Senate hearings on the nomination of L. Patrick Gray III to be director of the FBI.

"He also told me I should gather any material I could regarding the uses and abuses of the FBI by previous administrations so that we could show we had not abused the FBI for political purposes."

The elephant gestation period is 21 months. For a rabbit, it's one month.

Farm Roundup

Outlook Information For Farms Confusing

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department experts who publish information on the farm outlook have taken a beating this month because of such recent developments as the price freeze announced June 13 by the President.

In a number of cases, the department has issued reports that update others still being distributed. The result can be confusing if the older version is read last.

Detective's Death Ruled Accidental

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — The shooting death of an East St. Louis detective earlier this month has been ruled accidental.

A St. Clair County grand jury said Tuesday that detective Kenneth McCoy was killed by a shotgun wound inflicted by a fellow officer during a shootout with robbery suspects on June seventh.

The jury also ruled that the death of one of the suspects, Edward Johnson, was justifiable homicide.

Testimony before the grand jury did not specify who fired the shots that killed McCoy and Johnson, but a witness before the grand jury, East St. Louis Police Captain John Andrews, said later that McCoy was the only officer to fire a .45-caliber pistol, the type of weapon that killed Johnson.

Andrews also said that another East St. Louis policeman, William Stanis, was the only officer who fired a shotgun during the gun battle.

The policeman called the shooting of McCoy "a horrible mistake."

McCoy and Johnson were killed at the home of an East St. Louis tavern owner during a stakeout. Police said they had earlier received a tip that the man would be robbed. The gun battle began when the robbery suspects approached McCoy, who was acting as a decoy outside the house, and began firing. McCoy received a hand wound during the earlier shooting and apparently suffered the fatal head wound when he was shot by mistake as Stanis and other officers came to his aid.

Take the "Farm Index," published monthly by the Economic Research Service. Authors of various articles and short subjects had no way of knowing in advance that new actions might outdate what they had to say in the June issue.

The June magazine, for example, put estimated net farm income for 1973 at $21 billion. More recently, USDA projected it at more than $22 billion. But even that was based on information prior to President Nixon's price freeze and may be subject to revision.

The magazine, however, carefully noted that estimates is most cases were based on earlier information gathered by department agencies. Some times that isn't quite enough. Here is the situation for hogs as pictured in the current issue:

"High feed costs have put a damper on expansion in the hog industry. Though the Corn Belt's spring pig crop will be up an estimated six per cent from a year ago, the increases is rather moderate when considering the especially favorable hog prices in 1973."

But on June 22 the department updated the hog situation with a new report while the Farm Index was still being circulated. That version showed the Corn Belt's spring pig crop during March-May was down three per cent from a year earlier.

Now, with the freeze on prices and a new Phase 4 control program expected by mid-July, department magazine writers are being pressed hard to figure out what to say next.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report by the Agriculture Department on market basket food prices for May shows that farmers received a slightly smaller share of the consumer grocery dollar than in April.

The May share was 44 cents for each dollar spent on U.S. farm-produced food, the department said. In April it was 44.2 cents.

Until the past year or so when higher farm prices came into the picture, the farmer's share of the food dollar ranged mostly between 37 and 40 cents.

POWs Charged

Charges of mutiny, aiding the enemy, misconduct as a prisoner and failure to obey orders have been filed against two high-ranking former POWs by Rear Adm. James B. Stockdale, left, who was deputy commander of all U.S.

captives in North Vietnam, the Navy said Tuesday. Charged are Marine Lt. Col. Edison W. Miller, right, 41, of Tustin, Calif., and Navy Capt. Walter E. Wilber, center, 43, of Columbia Cross Roads, Pa. (UPI)

Ann Landers

Dad Took Ann's Advice Wrong

Dear Ann Landers: I am an 18-year-old girl who lives at home and commutes to college. My father believes whatever Ann Landers says is LAW.

This morning the phone rang. I was asleep. It kept ringing and ringing. No one answered it until finally I pulled myself out of bed and answered it myself. Then I saw my dad sitting at the table, less than ten feet from the phone, enjoying the newspaper and drinking coffee. I asked, "Don't you believe in answering the phone when it rings?" He replied, "Not since Ann Landers said you don't have to answer the phone if you don't feel like it."

Did you REALLY say that? If so, it is the rudest, most inconsiderate, most anti-social and utterly sick thing I have ever heard of in my life. If you said it, I hope you will retract it in deference to the future sanity of our household. — Sparks-A-Flying

Dear Sparky: I did say a person need not answer the phone if he doesn't feel like it. But that advice was given in a completely different context. For example, many people complain about being trapped on the phone by long-winded friends and relatives who call at inconvenient times. THAT advice is for THEM. In a household such as yours, however, the person nearest the phone should answer it as a favor to other members of the family.

Dear Ann Landers: Your remark in response to "Just Crushed," that "a gentleman never tells" — made me laugh. How naive can you get?

I've held hands with at least 10,000 men in the past 20 years. You see, I'm a manicurist — and I could write a book about the things I've heard in the barber shops of Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Omaha.

Do you know the favorite topic of most men? WOMEN. Or to be more specific, "women I have known." (And they use the word "known" in the Biblical sense.) Naturally they never talk about their failures — only their conquests. And the dirty dogs name names and places, with no thought of who might be under the towels in the next chair. It could be the lady's husband for all they know.

So please knock off that sweet talk that "a gentleman never tells." They tell plenty. — Miss Clammy Hands Of The Midwest

Dear Miss: I refuse to retract a word of it. Those barbershop blabbermouths can hardly be called gentlemen.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a good job and I make a good salary. But the cost of living has me budgeted to the last nickel. Every cent means something.

I hate to sound petty, but one of the girls I work with is driving me to the wall with her small "loans" which turn out to be gifts.

We frequently ride the same bus home from work. Twice in the last two weeks she has asked me to pay her fare. She is also a coffee mooch. She has asked me to bring her coffee from the cafeteria at least three times this month, and it's never just coffee — it's always a few cookies, or a sweet roll or a piece of pound cake along with the java.

I hate to remind a person about 26 cents and 35 cents. It seems so petty. Yet—????? Please advise. Seeing Red

Says Price Freeze Will Close Mill

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A price freeze is forcing the ADM Milling Co. to close its flour mill in Minneapolis, Minn., Friday, says H. D. Hale, the company's president.

He said Wednesday the price of wheat is so high the mill can't grind flour and make a profit. The mill normally produces 10,000 hundredweight of flour daily.

Hale said about 50 employees will be laid off, and decisions on the company's eight other mills will be made on a day-to-day basis.

Probation Is Levied

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Michael Ball, 19, who earlier pleaded guilty to concealing documents taken last November from the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington, D.C., was sentenced Wednesday to serve three years probation.

The documents were found in Kansas City in a car occupied by Ball. The discovery was made soon after a six-day Indian occupation of the BIA headquarters.

A federal grand jury in Topeka, Kan., indicted Ball later on two counts.

One count was dismissed. Ball pleaded guilty to the other after his arrest to stand trial in U.S. District Court in Portland.

Under terms of the probation, Judge James Burns said, Ball must also in addition to filling normal probation requirements prepare and submit to the court a plan for education or employment and will have to carry out the plan during his probation term.

Woodcarver Began Career After Reaching Age 80

By JANE STAUFFER
Jefferson City News Tribune
For The Associated Press
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Ask 87-year-old John Niederwimmer at what age he first began carving wood and you would expect an answer such as "by the time I could hold a knife" or "knee-high to a grasshopper."

Instead, the retired Missouri farmer from Lohman, a few miles southwest of here, says he never even attempted carving until he was in his early 80s.

"I was a farmer and I didn't know what to do when I retired, so I made a wooden chain," he says, fingering the rustic object that was his first endeavor.

The impulse that prompted Niederwimmer to make the chain has led to a thriving business. Clad in blue-bibbed overalls and a striped railroad engineer's hat, Niederwimmer still gives the impression of a farmer. But his rough hands belie a skill that has earned him a considerable reputation around the central Missouri area as a master carver.

In his small, blue-lined notebook are orders for wooden chains with crosses, what-not shelves, wishing wells and candy dishes. The orders come from as far away as the Kansas City area.

But the increasing demand for the carvings has not lessened Niederwimmer's original intention. "I do it for pleasure. I'm getting old and it gives me a way to spend my time."

A craftsman in a time when true craftsmen are hard to find, Niederwimmer maintains a pride in the articles he carves.

In the nostalgic atmosphere of a rather dilapidated Lohman repair shop, complete with old wooden floors, high ceilings and a black wood-burning stove, Niederwimmer shows off his carvings. Some lie in a clutter of wood pieces, nut and tools in the repair shop window.

Of particular pride to the old man is a replica of a horse-drawn wagon he made in 1968. Holding the carefully-mounted showpiece.

Niederwimmer points out the fine details of a tiny brake, a springboard seat, double trace, red-spoked wheels and a body that detaches from the framework.

"It took more than 600 hours to make the wagon," he said, adding with a quiet smile and great understatement, "It takes a little patience to carve."

He has been offered as much as $150 for the wagon, "but my kids won't let me sell it."

Although customers can order anything Niederwimmer feels he can make, he gleans many of his ideas from items he sees in stores and magazines. And he doesn't always choose something simple.

One ornament is a wooden cage containing two wooden balls. The frame comes first and then the balls are painstakingly shaped from a block of wood inside the cage.

Whether patiently carving a chain on a sidewalk chair outside the shop or meticulously fitting 360 pieces together to form a candy dish, Niederwimmer always works with a smile.

As his work becomes more wellknown and the backlog piles up, Niederwimmer apologizes for not having any carvings to sell to the public, but he feels no pressure.

"As soon as I get anything made and on the shelf," he says, "out it goes."

District Meeting Is Held Here

Pettis County Post 16 of the American Legion hosted the regular meeting of the Seventh Missouri Legion District and the annual district's election of officers at 2 p.m. Sunday. The meeting was held at the local Post, 16th and Thompson, with 12 Seventh District posts represented from throughout the central Missouri area.

Elected commander of the District for the 1973-74 year was Robert "Bob" Brauer, Cole Camp, who succeeds Clyde Hartman, Sweet Springs. Mrs. Harold Bodecker will be the new District Ladies' Auxiliary president.

Among guests at the meeting were Missouri Department Commander Joseph W. Kist, Festus, and Legionnaire Jim Counce, Glasgow, the Seventh District child welfare chairman who played the role of the old blacksmith in the newly released Reader's Digest-sponsored movie, "Tom Sawyer," now playing in Sedalia.

Local Post 16 commander Howard R. Hillman, Route 1, was among two delegates and two alternates chosen to represent the district at the American Legion National Convention, Aug. 17-23, at Honolulu, Hawaii.

Following the district meeting, a fellowship dinner was served by the Post 16 Ladies' Auxiliary in the basement of the Legion Hall.

Star Spangled Favorites Celebrate Nation's Birthday

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

The Fourth of July is a very special Yankee Doodle time. Of all the significant dates through the almost two centuries of the country's growth that have become public holidays, this is the most significant of all, marking the adoption of the Declaration of Independence 197 years ago.

At first the anniversary observances had religious overtones. Then patriotic oratory and parades took over.

The Fourth is still parade time in many communities with bunting and bands. And after the public festivities, the private thoughts of many families turn to picnics.

Heading the list of special foods for this special holiday is the All-American favorite, ice cream. What better way to celebrate Fourth of July, 1973, than with a homemade strawberry ice cream or an apricot parfait. Topping off a feast of barbecued chicken, macaroni-olive salad, iced tea-fizz, marinated Brussels sprouts salad, kraut bread and surprise meat balls. This coast-to-coast menu underscores the American reality that began with Independence Day, so many, many years ago.

CHURN METHOD STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

- 2 pints fresh California strawberries
- 2 cups sugar
- 6 egg yolks
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups scalded milk
- 1 tablespoon vanilla extract
- 3 cups heavy cream
- 12 drops red food color (optional)

Wash and hull strawberries. Puree strawberries by whirling in electric blender until liquified or by pressing through sieve. Mix with 1 cup sugar and let stand in refrigerator at least 1 hour.

for about 30 minutes or until motor starts to labor. (As ice melts and water drains off during churning, add more layers of ice and rock-salt.) When churning is completed, drain off water from freezer tub. Let ice cream ripen for improved flavor and texture.

TO RIPEN

Do not remove canister. Wipe canister lid and remove carefully so no brine gets into ice cream. Remove dasher; scrape off ice cream and pack down in canister. Cover canister with double thickness of waxed paper and replace lid; plug hole third cups) for sherbet. To prepare sherbet, bring half and half, milk, three-quarter cup sugar, corn syrup and salt to simmering point in saucepan, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and cool. Stir in lemon peel, 1 and one-half tablespoons lemon juice and reserved 2 and one-third cups apricot puree. Pour into refrigerator trays or shallow dishes designed for freezing. Freeze for several hours or until firm. Spoon about half of frozen sherbet into electric blender container; blend until smooth. Return to refrigerator tray. Repeat procedure with remaining sherbet. Freeze sherbet until firm (about 4 hours.) TO PREPARE APRICOT SAUCE, mix 2 tablespoons corn starch and one-third cup sugar in medium saucepan. Blend in reserved 1 cup puree, reserved 1 cup apricot syrup and orange liqueur. Bring mixture to a boil, stirring constantly. Simmer about 3 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat; stir in 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Cool. Then chill. At serving time, layer sherbet and apricot sauce in eight 8-ounce parfait glasses. Cut reserved apricot halves into thirds lengthwise. Garnish each parfait with a slice of apricot. If desired, garnish with a red maraschino cherry half and a small sprig of mint leaves. Makes 8 parfaits, 8-ounces each.

BARBECUED CHICKEN

- 3/4 cup catsup
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- two-thirds cup drained sweet pickle relish
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 chickens, cut into serving pieces

Blend together catsup and mustard in small bowl. Add remaining ingredients, except chicken, and mix thoroughly. Set sauce aside. Grill chicken about 8 inches from low (gray) coals for 35 minutes. Turn with tongs occasionally. When chicken has grilled 35 minutes, brush both sides with sauce and continue grilling for about 25 minutes or until chicken is tender. Brush and turn frequently. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

MACARONI OLIVE SALAD

- 2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 1/2 cup each: dairy sour cream, mayonnaise
- one-third cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon basil leaves, crushed
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- one-third cup chopped onion
- 1 cup thinly sliced raw carrots
- 3/4 cup diced, seeded, peeled cucumber
- 1/2 cup sliced red radishes
- 3/4 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
- Salt and pepper

Gradually add macaroni and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water, drain again. To prepare dressing for salad, blend sour cream, mayonnaise, milk, dry mustard, basil leaves and lemon juice in large bowl. Add macaroni, vegetables and olive slices. Toss until combined. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Cover and chill for several hours. Makes 6 servings.

MARINATED BRUSSELS SPROUTS SALAD

- 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen California Brussels sprouts, cooked and drained
- 1 pound yellow squash, sliced and blanched
- 1/2 pound fresh raw mushrooms, sliced
- 1 large sweet purple onion, thinly sliced
- 3/4 cup bottled Italian dressing
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves

Arrange vegetables in a large shallow dish. Mix dressing and thyme leaves; pour over vegetables. Cover and chill 2 or more hours. To serve, arrange vegetables in rows on large platter. Drizzle any remaining dressing over top of salad. (Pour boiling water over squash in colander and allow to drain.) Makes 6 to 8 servings.

KRAUT BREAD

- 3/4 cup drained sauerkraut
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup sliced scallions
- 1/2 cup shredded carrot
- 1/2 teaspoon caraway seed
- 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
- Dash pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 2 cups prepared biscuit mix
- 3/4 cup milk
- Herb Butter

Place drained kraut on several layers of paper toweling. Press to remove as much moisture as possible. Melt butter in large skillet; saute scallions, carrots and kraut in skillet for about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and stir in caraway seed, sugar, pepper, salt and parsley. In a bowl, combine biscuit mix and milk. Turn dough onto floured board and knead lightly 4 or 5 times. Roll out to a rectangle 12 x 16 inches. Sprinkle kraut mixture evenly over surface of dough. Roll up dough, jelly-roll fashion, starting with long side. Place roll, seam side down, on ungreased baking sheet. Shape roll into a horse-shoe. Tuck ends of roll under so that filling is not exposed. If desired, brush bread with a beaten egg and sprinkle with caraway seed. Bake in 375-degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Serve warm with Herb Butter.

Herb Butter: Combine 1 cup butter (room temperature), one-fourth teaspoon caraway seed, one-eighth teaspoon thyme leaves and one-eighth teaspoon marjoram. Let stand at room temperature 1 hour before serving. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

SURPRISE MEAT BALLS

- 1 egg
- 1 pound ground chuck
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onions
- 1/4 cup bread crumbs
- Dash pepper

Surprise centers: (all well drained) Red maraschino cherries, but cut in half Small pimiento-stuffed olives Dill pickles, cut in 1/2-inch cubes Sweet gherkins, cut in 1/2-inch cubes

In mixing bowl, beat egg slightly. Add meat, onions, bread crumbs and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Shape into 1 and one-fourth-inch meat balls, pressing a cherry half, an olive, a pickle or rherkin cube into the center of each. Chill for at least 30 minutes. Thread meat balls on skewers, piercing through the "center" and leaving about one-half inch between each meat ball.

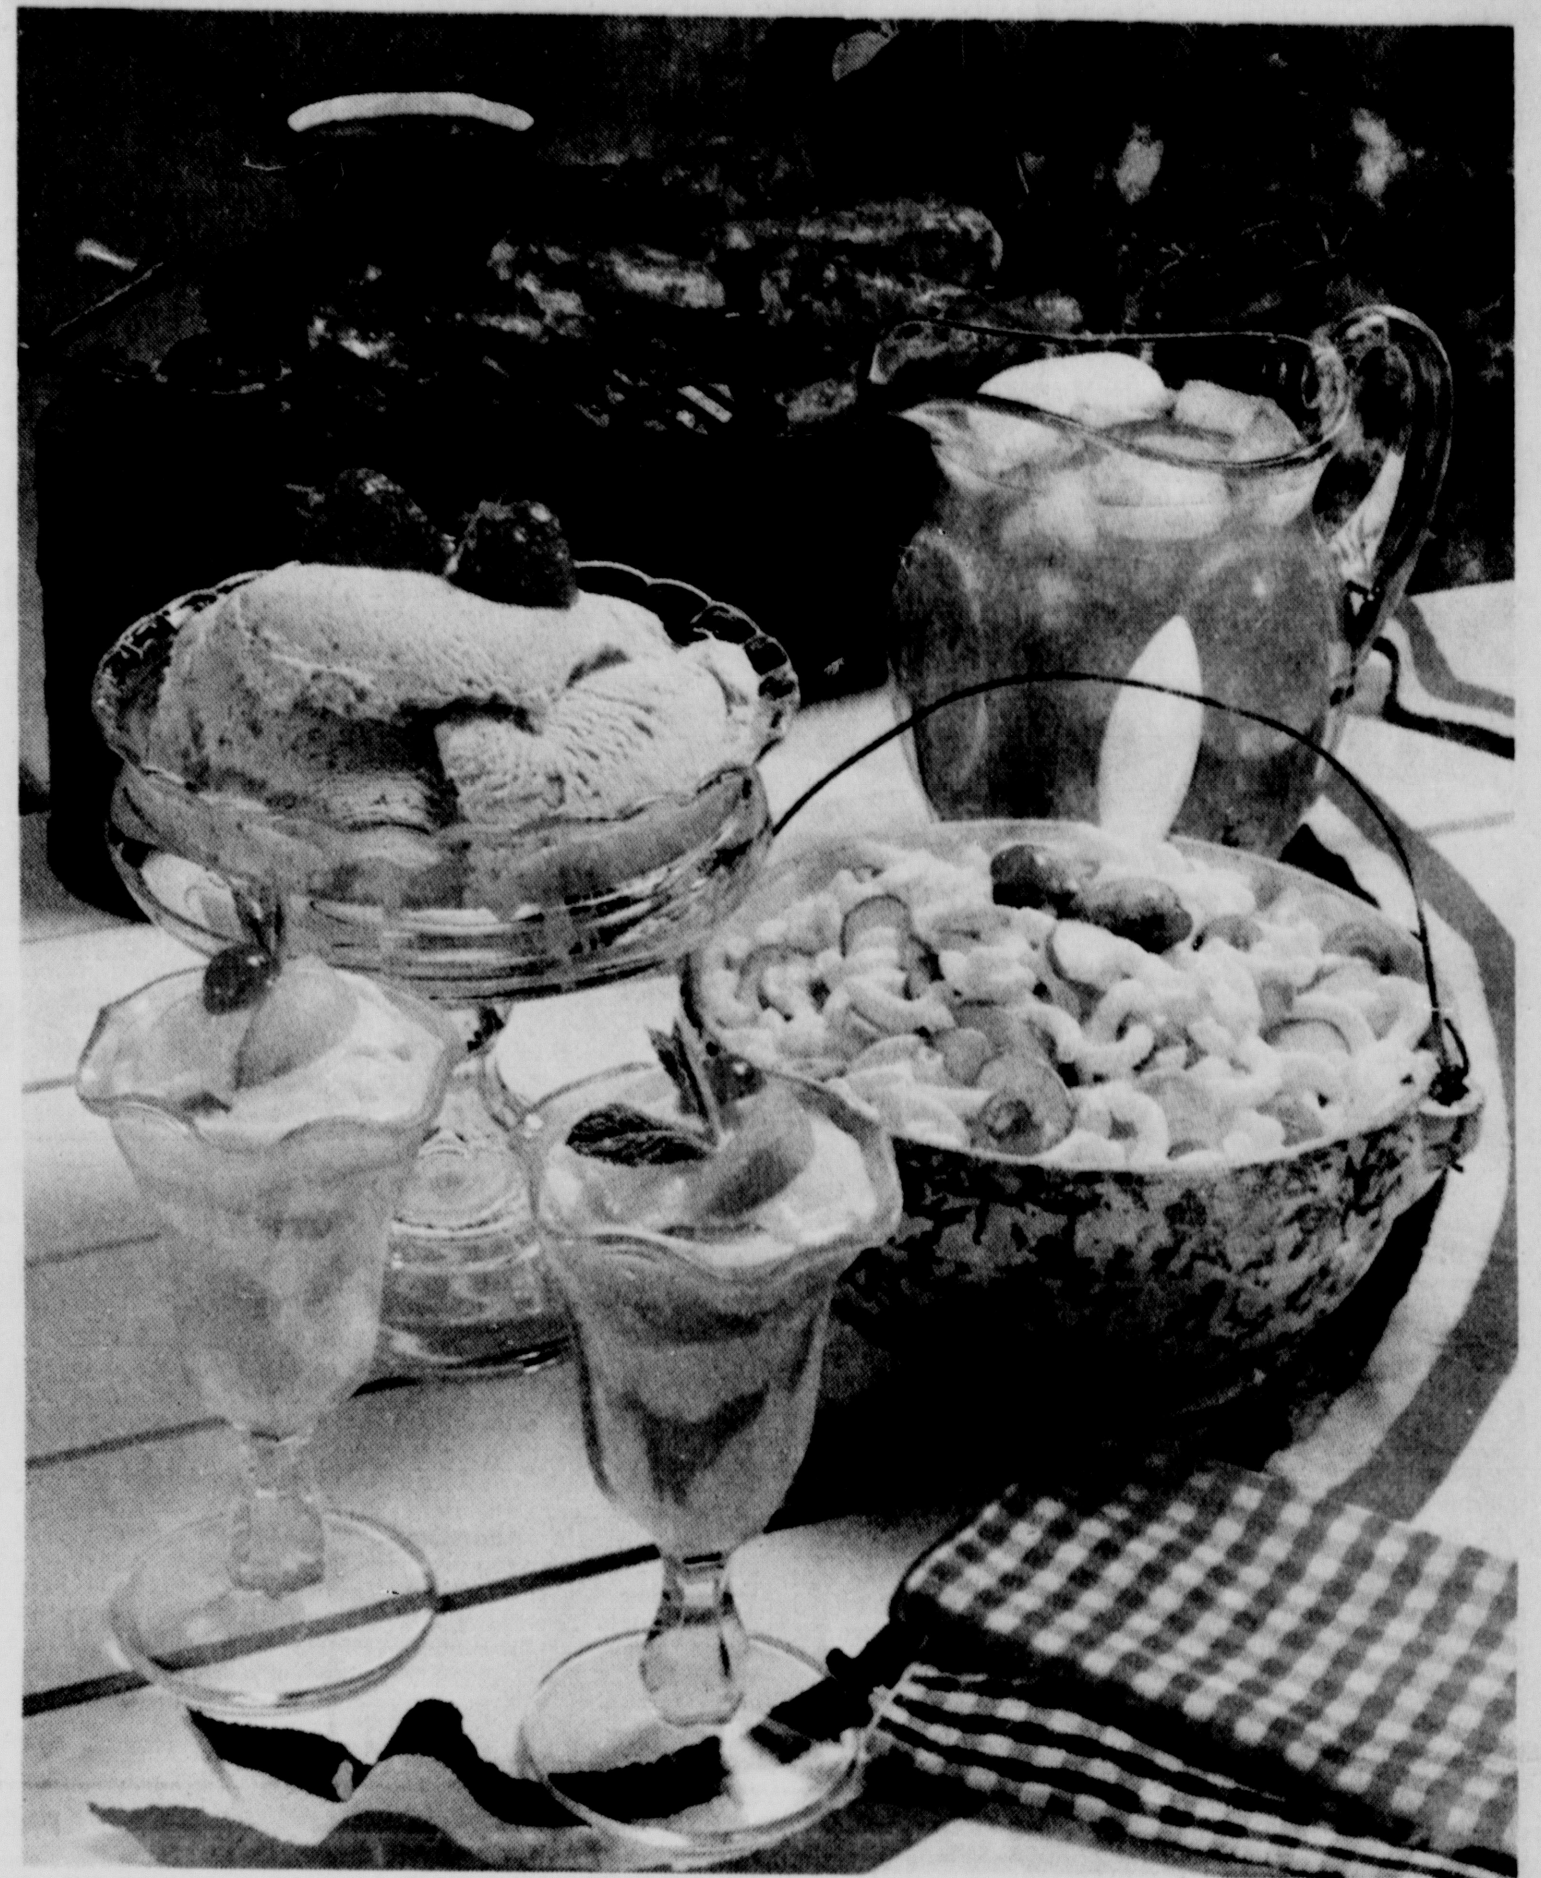

Grill over medium coals for about 10 minutes, turning occasionally. When brown, remove from skewers and serve with salt. Makes about 24 meat balls.

JULY FOURTH TEA-FIZZ

- 1/4 cup orange and spice-flavored iced tea mix
- 2 1/2 cups cold water
- 1 quart cranberry-apple drink, chilled
- 2 bottles (7 ounces each) lemon-lime carbonated beverage, chilled
- Light rum (optional)
- Ice cubes

Combine iced tea mix and cold water; stir until tea is dissolved. Add cranberry-apple drink. Just before serving, add carbonated beverage. If desired, add light rum to punch to taste. Pour into tall glasses filled with ice or serve in a pitcher. Garnish with orange and apple slices. Makes about 2 quarts.

For Women

To prepare custard base for ice cream, beat together egg yolks, remaining 1 cup sugar and salt. Slowly stir in scalded milk. Pour into medium saucepan and stir over medium heat until mixture coats a metal spoon. Remove from heat; add vanilla and cool. Stir in cream and food color, then chill. Combine chilled custard base with pureed strawberries.

Freeze ice cream in 4-quart electric- or hand-churn ice cream freezer according to manufacturer's instructions or by directions given below. Makes 4 quarts.

TO CHURN ICE CREAM

Fit dasher into freezer canister; pour strawberry ice cream mixture into canister (canister should be no more than two-thirds full to allow for expansion). Cover canister with lid and place in freezer tub.

Set freezer tub in pan or sink to catch ice water as it drains off through holes. Clamp gear frame to dasher. Pack freezer tub with alternate layers of crushed ice and rock-salt, using 1 quart crushed ice per one-third cup rock-salt. Do not let ice or rock-salt reach top of canister. If using hand-churn, turn crank slowly 5 minutes. Increase speed and continue to turn. If using electric churn, allow motor to churn ice cream in lid. Repack freezer tub with alternate layers of ice and rock-salt (4 parts ice to 1 part rock-salt). Cover ice cream freezer with newspaper or heavy cloth. Be sure drainage holes in freezer tub are open. Let ice cream stand at least 1 hour to ripen.

Note: If any ice cream is left over, pack in plastic freezer containers and place in home freezer. Do not freeze ice cream which has melted.

APRICOT PARFAITS

- 2 cans (30 ounces each) apricot halves
- 1 pint (2 cups) half and half
- 1/2 cup milk
- Sugar
- one-third cup light corn syrup
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- Lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons corn starch
- 2 tablespoons orange liqueur or orange juice
- Red maraschino halves and sprigs of fresh mint for garnish (optional)

Reserve 1 cup apricot syrup for sauce; use remaining syrup in other desserts. Set 3 apricot halves aside for garnish; chill until needed. Puree drained apricots in electric blender or press apricots through a sieve. Divide puree, setting aside 1 cup puree for sauce and using remainder (about two and one

Year Nears Completion For AFS Exchange Student

Jennifer James

By DENISE GROTZINGER
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Still remembering her first sight of the United States almost 12 months ago in Honolulu, Jennifer James is now packing for the first leg of the return trip. Saturday she is scheduled to leave Jefferson City for Washington, D.C., New York and San Francisco.

The American foreign exchange student from Australia, Jennifer's American parents are Mr. and Mrs. Don Buller, Route 4.

"I don't know where we will be going," Jennifer said. "They just told me to bring my luggage and a sack lunch and be in Jefferson City at 7:30 in the morning."

A maximum of 50 pounds of luggage is permitted on the plane so the majority of her clothes, what she has collected and gifts she has purchased have been shipped back to Australia, a trip which might take the packages several months.

Prior to this trip Jennifer hadn't traveled much. "I'd never been away from home for more than two weeks." With her American family she has traveled to New Orleans and Florida, and with other AFS students will see several different cities before leaving San Francisco for Australia on July 18.

Similar Life

Jennifer feels that the way of life in the two countries is similar. "It is probably because we are both new countries and the background of each is British," she added. She noted that teenagers are about the same and the music and clothes are identical. "More kids drive cars here," she said. "But that is only because we can't drive in Australia until we are 18."

AFS rules prohibit Jennifer from driving while she is in the United States, however. "If one of the students had an accident there could be legal problems for the AFS," she said.

Jennifer was notified in May 1972 that she had been selected and where she would be going. Photographs and short biographies introduced her to the American family she would spend the year with. She became a member of the Don Buller, family, Route 4, and inherited one sister, Shawn, 15, and two brothers, Kevin, 14, and Stuart, 8.

"I sort of fit in," she said. "I've got younger brothers at home and Shawn is near my age."

On July 17, 1972 after 14 months of preparation and elimination, she was sent to Sedalia by the American Field Service from Balwyn, Australia, a suburb of Melbourne, located in the southeastern part of the continent. A city of 3.5 million people, Jennifer lives eight miles from its center and cites the absence of the city as the most drastic change.

"Life is leisurely here," she said. "I had to slow down when I got in Sedalia."

When she came here it was winter in Australia. Melbourne's greenest time of the year, the temperatures remain moderate at about 50 degrees. She wasn't prepared for the snow and cold temperatures that Missouri's winter brought, conditions that exist in only the mountainous areas of Australia.

"I never even had a winter coat before coming here," Jennifer said. "We never did need them." She added that she liked the seasons here because you could see each one as distinct and different and can appreciate them more. The excessive rain and tornadoes were one facet of the Missouri weather that she didn't like.

School Life

The year spent here as an exchange student attending Smith-Cotton High School has netted her no credits which will transfer to her Australian school. She was active in many organizations at S-C High School, where as a senior she was a member of the student council, spiz, an honorary member of the Archives staff and was selected as an activity queen attendant and football homecoming attendant.

Upon her return to Melbourne she will complete her remaining half-year she needs to qualify for graduation and "hopefully enter college."

It is difficult to be accepted into a university because of the high competition involved. In Victoria, the state which Jennifer lives, there are only three universities.

Interested in graphic and commercial art, she plans to continue her studies in college. She took art courses in Australia, was enrolled in art appreciation at State Fair Community College and studied art at Smith-Cotton.

Student Reports

Ron Hieronymus was selected to play the part of El Gallo in the July 5 production of "The Fantasticks" at Northwest Missouri State University, Maryville.

Anita Ruth Barrick, 1500 West Broadway, and R. W. Bouknecht Jr., 1908 South Ingram, were named to the dean's honor roll for the spring semester at William Jewell College, Liberty.

Students named have achieved a minimum grade point ratio of 3.5.

Honor Roll Named

Connie Cordes received a 4.0 grade point average at Southwest Baptist College, Bolivar. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clay B. Cordes, 1935 East Seventh.

Other students listed on the honor roll with a minimum grade of 3.0 were Cynthia Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Robertson, Smithton; Mary E. Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Benz; Linda Porter, daughter of Allen Porter, 1300 West 16th; Giana Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Snyder, Route 2; Mrs. Elizabeth Reid, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Fisher, 2200 South Kentucky; and David H. Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wells.

WRITING TO DONNY IS FUN

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Teacher Godfrey Allen, 41, came up with the answer to the problem of "reluctant writers" at Miles Platting Secondary Modern School. He got the 11- and 12-year-olds to write to their pop idols instead of doing essays.

Said Allen: "Writing to someone like Donny Osmond is much more exciting for them than being given a conventional school subject to work on."

Most of the youngsters addressed their letters to Donny.

Boonslick Puppets

Last week Liberty Park was the setting of the Boonslick Regional Library puppet show presented for children attending Camp Kadeka, a summer camp sponsored by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, Ninth and Montgomery.

Approximately 50 children attending the camp watched the Boonslick puppets in their presentation of the "Three Little Pigs," one of the many special activities the camp has participated in during the past two weeks.

Nixon's Rating Not Effectuated

By LOUIS HARRIS

Despite the obvious crisis now facing President Nixon over the Watergate affair, in which pluralities of the public feel he ought to resign "if it is proven that he knew about the bugging before it happened" or "if it is proven that he ordered the cover-up," Nixon's over-all rating among the people on the job he is doing as President is no worse than 49-48 per cent negative. This represents virtually no change since an early May reading.

Although his standing on "handling the Watergate affair" is 70-15 per cent negative, on his efforts to "work for peace in the world" the President is still riding high, with a 72-25 per cent positive rating. The net balance of these two extremes is for the American people to split the difference and to come down just about evenly divided on the over-all performance of their President in office.

The prevailing mood in the country still is summed up in the 54-34 per cent agreement with the proposition that "President Nixon still has most of his second term in the White House to go, so it is best to give him the benefit of the doubt in the Watergate bugging and cover-up." By 52-36 per cent, people also believe "it is more important for the President to spend his time working for the country than to be trying to find out what happened in the Watergate affair."

People would like to believe that somehow, in some way, President Nixon will not fall victim to the Watergate affair. And yet, increasingly, public doubts and suspicions about his integrity continue to mount — to the point where in the next month the American people will make a decision on whether they feel their President should remain in office.

The toll on Nixon's standing has not been so great in assessment of his over-all performance. But there has been serious erosion about his personal integrity. Back in May, 63 per cent of the public was prepared to go along with the proposition that "President Nixon is a man of high integrity." In the latest survey, taken in depth among a cross-section of 1,509 people 18 years and over, all conducted in person in their homes, only 43 per cent were still prepared to endorse Nixon as a "man of high integrity," although only 36 per cent were prepared to deny it.

Most damaging of all is the level of personal confidence people are now prepared to give the President. Periodically the survey has asked cross-sections: "How would you rate President Nixon on inspiring confidence personally in the White House — excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?"

	Positive	Negative	Not Sure
June, 1973	24	65	11
May	32	57	11
April	33	53	14
March	38	50	12
Feb.	48	41	11
Jan.	38	52	10
Dec. 1972	44	48	8
Oct.	51	41	8

Since last October, when Nixon was at the height of his popularity and on the eve of his landslide victory in the election, his confidence rating has slipped from 51-41 per cent positive to a mid-June standing of 65-24 per cent negative. Never one of his strong assets, the confidence-inspiring factor has been one of the first to drop precipitously under the impact of the Watergate crisis.

People are much more inclined to want to judge Mr. Nixon on his record in office than on his personal qualities. Yet the essence of the Watergate question on which people are now passing judgments is the President's personal integrity. And if it does not measure up to the standards they expect, then a plurality are prepared to want to see his resignation.

Thus far, the answers forthcoming from President Nixon on Watergate simply have not washed with the American people. The public is doubtful that the appointment of Archibald Cox as a special prosecutor on Watergate will reveal "the whole truth." The people are largely unimpressed with Nixon's explanation that he was worried about CIA and FBI involvement in the case, and therefore wanted at least a partial cover-up of the full story.

Obviously, much damage has been done to Nixon by Watergate. But the public has not yet foreclosed the case against him, and, in fact, is hoping against hope that the President can find a way to clear up the doubts and to continue to serve out his term in office. People obviously still feel Nixon is capable of doing a satisfactory job. But unless he clears his name on the question of basic integrity as far as Watergate is concerned, his viability as President will be at stake.

Yes, Dear Reader, Calories Do Count

Dear Dr. Lamb — I read recently that if you were on a crash diet program for several weeks, where your food intake and calorie intake is extremely low, your body becomes attuned to burning pure calories. Then as soon as you begin to eat normally, regardless of what you eat, you gain weight. By normally I do not mean going back to your old eating habits, because I know that would make you gain all over again.

Also, I would like to know if calories are really important or not. For example, does a piece of cake and a piece of lean meat, containing the same amount of calories, have the same effect on your body as far as maintaining your weight is concerned.

Dear Reader — Whenever you sharply decrease your calorie intake the body metabolism shuts down, decreasing the calories used and the rate of weight loss. This is nature's mechanism of enabling man to survive when food is not abundant. If you are lost in the Arctic, this can be rather handy. It's not so handy if you are dieting to lose weight. When the metabolism is shut down the energy level is zilch. To help counteract this, if you want to lose weight, it is better to maintain an active physical program which stimulates your metabolism.

For a good sensible weight control program you should decrease the calories only a reasonable amount and increase your physical activity. This will enable you to eat a good, normal, healthy diet while losing weight slowly. You need to develop nutrition habits to keep the excess fat off, not just simply to lose it.

Now, about regaining weight after you've stopped the diet. This is particularly apt to happen on the low carbohydrate diets, such as the recently popularized Atkins' diet or its preceding versions, such as Teller's "Calories Don't Count," the erroneously called Air Force Diet or Mayo's Diet. Much of the initial weight loss on low carbohydrate diets is from loss of water. The kidneys lose needed body salt and water, not just fat. This sometimes causes weakness. When you resume eating a more normal diet to include important carbohydrate sources, such as, vegetables, cereals, raw fruits, or even milk, the body chemistry returns to normal level, and you regain the normal salt and water. This rapid weight loss that's been evident on the scales, and sometimes evident in the haggard, sunken face, is quickly replaced. The effect is much the same as watering a plant that hasn't gotten water for several weeks — if it survived.

Yes, calories do count. There is no magic that enables one to avoid the principle that what you weigh depends on the calories in (food) balanced against the calories out (activity). It's just like a checking account, and you either have to lose the calories through the digestive tract (as may occur with an illness such as an infectious diarrhea), or else you have to burn up the calories you take in if they're not to be stored as fat.

Yes, 100 calories in cake has the same weight gaining effect as 100 calories of meat. A calorie is a calorie. Since lean meat is over 70 per cent water it does contain fewer calories per ounce than cake. Incidentally, many commercial cakes and those made by ordinary home recipes contain as much fat, or more, as may be found in lean meat.

American Oil Shortage Not European Problem

LONDON (AP) — The oil shortage threatening American motorists has not been felt in Europe and it is not expected to become a problem anytime soon, according to oil industry sources.

A British oil industry source says, "America is now paying for 70 years of self-sufficiency." "For years the United States was able to meet its own oil needs from domestic production while Europe had to buy its oil on the world market."

"Now because of increasing needs, the U.S. has had to come out onto the world market to buy where Europeans already are well-established and have their supplies sewed up," the source explained.

European oil industry sources predict that some day oil could also be in short supply for the Europeans if American companies continue their shopping spree on world markets.

Oil experts say that American antipollution laws, which cut gas mileage and restrict refining operations, also contribute to the U.S. fuel shortage. The many heavy, high-powered cars Americans drive also contribute to the problem.

However, gasoline prices are high in Europe compared to America and the price is going up in several countries. Britain had a recent price rise of 2.6 U.S. cents which brought the price of a gallon of gasoline to 99 cents.

West German officials say the price of a liter of gasoline has risen since January by nearly one U.S. cent to around 26 cents a liter. Another 2-cent increase is expected next month when an anti-inflation tax is imposed. A liter is slightly more than a quart.

The only report of gasoline shortages comes from Moscow, where the city's relatively few stations sometimes run out. But this probably is due to logistical and distribution problems plaguing the Soviet economy, rather than to any shortage of gasoline.

Nixon and Congress in clash of wills

President Nixon has given Congress something of a shock by vetoing a bill that would have cut off all funds for the U.S. bombing of Cambodia.

On Wednesday the Western White House announced the veto of the $3.4 billion supplemental appropriations bill, which had cleared the Senate on Tuesday by a vote of 81 to 11. The House had passed the bill earlier, but by a considerably smaller margin.

By his veto, the President has turned his back on a continuing resolution of Congress that the United States cease its last remaining combat activity in Southeast Asia—the bombing of Cambodia. Nixon did not undertake the step lightly.

Before the veto, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted that such a move by Nixon would precipitate a "constitutional crisis." Certainly it has left President Nixon more isolated than he ever has been in pursuing what remains of the U.S. role in Indo-China.

The House quickly voted to sustain the President's veto, with 241 votes to override and 173 to sustain, 35 short of the required two-thirds majority.

Beyond that, however, things don't look so good for the President. A hostile Congress, angered at having its will thwarted, may not be too inclined to work with the President in many legislative areas that need attention.

The confrontation accentuates the split on the role of the United States in Southeast Asia, which has caused the nation so much agony. Nixon is convinced that his hard-won ceasefire in South Vietnam is imperiled by the serious Red threat to Cambodia, and sees the U.S. bombing as a means of achieving a possible truce in that nation. Congress, reflecting the nation's war-weariness, simply wants OUT.

It's a clash of wills that could have far-reaching effects on the balance of Mr. Nixon's term.

A conservative view

Airbag works well in the real world

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Barring some further extension of the deadline, all automobiles manufactured after Aug. 15, 1975, will have to be equipped with "passive restraint" devices in the front-seat positions. For all practical purposes, this means airbags. How are they coming along?

The answer appears to be, remarkably well. Since "real-world" testing began last year, the airbags have functioned flawlessly in eight serious accidents. The bags have inflated on impact, precisely as designed, and it is probable that two girls in St. Louis and a young man from Scarsdale are alive today — or at least not maimed or disfigured — because of these devices.

The record, however, shows one disturbing instance of inadvertent inflation. Of this, more in a moment.

As most motorists know, the airbag is the industry's answer to a decree of the Department of Transportation. First proposed in the summer of 1969, the rule now requires that after 1975, the driver and his right-hand passenger be protected from harm in certain frontal impact collisions. These crashes account for 60 per cent of all serious accidents and 70 per cent of all fatal ones.

The airbags now being tested work this way: At the moment of impact, depending upon speed, a series of one, two, or three detonators are fired. These release gas that instantly inflates two large nylon bags concealed beneath the instrument panel. The occupants, instead of being hurled through the windshield, are cushioned by the bag. The bag then deflates. It all happens in a fraction of a second.

The devices were extensively tested in laboratory experiments — sometimes with disappointing failures — prior to the real-world testing now under way. Ford equipped 831 Mercury Montereys with airbags, and General Motors put a thousand Chevrolet Impalas on the road. The Allstate Insurance Company, leading promoter of the airbag, has been operating 200 of the Mercurys, and has been keeping unofficial score on how things are going.

The first real-world crash occurred Oct. 9, 1972, in Santa Barbara, Calif., when one of Allstate's fleet cars hit a garbage truck.

The car was demolished, but the airbag inflated perfectly on impact. The driver sustained only minor injuries.

Since then, perfect inflations have been reported in seven other serious accidents. Just this month, by way of example, the airbags may have saved three lives.

On June 8, 14-year-old Patricia Mundy took her stepfather's Impala for a joyride with her chum, Mariane Leslie Smith. She lost control of the car in crossing a bumpy railway track in Valley Park, Mo., and crashed head-on at 35 miles an hour into a telephone pole. The car was a total loss, but Patricia escaped with a broken nose and Mariane with a sore shoulder.

On June 17, in suburban Philadelphia, 21-year-old Robert F. Perlin, of Scarsdale, N.Y., driving an Impala, crashed into three poles on a safety island and overturned. The car was demolished, the airbag inflated. Perlin suffered only minor chest injuries.

The only reported malfunction occurred on June 13, according to Allstate, in one of the Impalas. Spokesmen for General Motors are strangely unwilling to talk about the incident. The sketchy information available to Allstate indicates that a 46-year-old woman was riding in the passenger seat of the car in or near Lowell, Mass., when the first detonator inexplicably fired and partly inflated the passenger bag only. She reportedly suffered a sprained or broken thumb when her arm was flung into her face.

Obviously, we need to know a good deal more about this "fluke," as Allstate describes it. The fear of inadvertent inflation is a real fear and must be met with candor. Until this happened, the risk of inadvertent inflation had been estimated at one in 3.3 billion vehicle miles, or once in the lifetimes of 6,000 typical drivers. It should not have happened in the first nine months of testing 1,831 cars.

I continue to object, on philosophical grounds, to the government's requirement that airbag installations be compulsory. Reserving that exception, I am bound to say that the real-world tests, on balance, look pretty good.

In the lap of security

WASHINGTON — Leonid Brezhnev stopped off to see French President Georges Pompidou on his way back to Moscow and, of course, they talked about their mutual friend, Richard Nixon.

"Mon cher ami," said President Pompidou, "how was your visit to the United States?"

"Is fantastic!" said Secretary Brezhnev. "I was at the White House, Camp David and San Clemente."

"Alors," said Pompidou, "when I met with Nixon all I got to see was Iceland."

"Gospodin Pompidou, you should see the dacha Nixon has in San Clemente. It must be worth two, three million dollars."

"I didn't know he was doing that well as President."

"He doesn't do that well but he has friends. He explained to me how he bought the place. It seems he has this friend Abplanalp who loaned him the money to buy San Clemente. Then Abplanalp bought back everything but five acres so Nixon didn't owe Abplanalp anything. Nixon got the house for nothing and Abplanalp got the land around San Clemente and everyone was happy."

"It's hard for me to follow that," Pompidou said.

"Frankly, I didn't understand it either. But Nixon was laughing the whole time he explained it to me so it must have been a good deal."

"How can he keep up three houses on his salary?" Pompidou asked.

"Is simple," Brezhnev replied. "Security."

"Quelle security?" Pompidou asked.

"Every time something has to be done to San Clemente dacha, Secret Service says is for security. Nixon needs golf carts, is for security; new tiles for roof, is for security; heated swimming pool, is for security; beach cabana, is for security; electrical work on house, is for security. I tell you, Gospodin, when I get back to Soviet Union I am going to have a long talk with my security people and get my dacha by the Black Sea in shape."

"Bon idee!" Pompidou said. "I think I'll meet with my security people and have them fix up my home at St. Tropez. I could use a new guest house and a sauna."

"I am going to tell my security people to build me a movie theater and a golf course," Brezhnev said.

"Do you play golf?" Pompidou asked.

"No, but you never know when I'll be booted out by the party and a golf course should add to value of my property."

"What else did Nixon tell you?" Pompidou wanted to know.

"He said the best investment he ever made was buying the dacha at Key Biscayne. He got the government to make $579,907 worth of improvements on this dacha so if he ever wants to sell it, it will be worth three times what he paid for it."

Pompidou nodded. "I have always said about Nixon that he may not know how to protect the dollar abroad, but he really knows how to buy Florida real estate."

"You can say that again," said Brezhnev. "When I get back to Soviet Union I'm going to speak to my good friend Bebe Rebozovitch and see if he can find me another dacha in Vladivostok with lots of security."

"Now tell me, Comrade Brezhnev, what did you find out on your visit to the United States that would be interesting for me to know?"

"Gospodin Pompidou, I will tell you something, but you must swear that you will never reveal where you heard it."

"Sacre coeur," said Pompidou. "I swear it."

"Nixon has fantastic lawn-sprinkler system at San Clemente."

"Alors!" said Pompidou. "For security?"

Brezhnev shrugged his shoulders. "What else?"

total taxable income of $109,944 in 1967 and $65,980 in 1968.

The Justice Department report added that, on Jan. 20, 1970, the case was referred to Internal Revenue's crack intelligence division, which handles criminal investigations. A group of agents from various Southern offices was immediately assembled in Alabama.

Since we had exposed the kickback schemes which led to the tax investigation, details from the progress report were leaked circuitously to us. I sent my associate Brit Hume to Alabama to double-check the facts and to discuss the tax investigation with Gerald Wallace.

"They have got 47 agents on me right now," Gerald said bitterly. "You all are trying to beat George Wallace. You're not interested in my tax returns." He added that federal agents had been after him "as long as George has been cussin' federal judges and most especially since he scared the hell out of Nixon and Humphrey."

We ran the tax story, which got a big play in Alabama. In the subsequent primary, George Wallace had a close call. He nosed out ex-Gov. Albert Brewer by a narrow 51.5 per cent of the vote.

Thereafter, the White House changed its strategy and sought to persuade Wallace to enter the 1972 presidential sweepstakes as a Democrat rather than an independent.

In May 1971, President Nixon visited Alabama and invited Wallace to ride with him on a flight from Mobile to Birmingham. No one will tell us what the two men said to each other during the plane ride. The subsequent events, therefore, may be merely coincidental.

But not long afterward, the tax case against Gerald Wallace was dropped and George Wallace announced he would run for President as a Democrat, not as an independent.

State Education Council Holds Its First Meeting

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Council on Public Higher Education held its first general meeting Wednesday with 300 persons attending. A survey showed they favor keeping low tuitions at state universities, eliminating duplicative programs and allowing students to transfer credits easily from one school to another.

The 2-year-old voluntary group is made up of educators and citizens concerned with improving communication and co-operation among the 26 state supported institutions of higher learning. Public money is used to help finance the organization, through membership dues from the cooperating universities. Several university presidents were instrumental in forming COPHE.

Of the 271 responding to the survey, these results were reported:

—54 per cent opposed having a single governing board coordinate higher education, 36 per cent approved of it and 10 per cent were undecided.

—52 per cent opposed state financing of private universities while 36 per cent favored it and the remainder had no opinion.

—62 per cent were opposed to collective bargaining for faculty members while 26.5 per cent favored it and the rest were undecided.

—54 per cent were in favor of putting a percentage limit on the number of tenured teachers while 26 per cent opposed it and the rest were undecided.

The survey showed overwhelmingly support for allowing each institution to develop its own academic programs in accordance with the needs of its constituency and to develop continuing education programs for off-campus students.

Most of the respondents favored allowing faculty members to have more voice in deciding administrative, curriculum and student personnel policies. They favored giving the students similar decision-making power, except in the area of administration.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond told the group that when reorganization of state government occurs, the Commission on Higher Education will be succeeded by a Coordinating Board of Higher Education.

"In this time of leveling off of student enrollments, we have an excellent opportunity to assess our higher education program offerings—unproductive programs and overly-duplicative programs should be weeded out—new programs should be requested and implemented with caution," Bond said.

The governor said the Commission on Higher Education is completing a study of unused space and the implications are that university space must be better utilized rather than building new buildings.

Earlier in the day, Bond vetoed a $2 million appropriation for an administrative building at the St. Louis campus of the University of Missouri. He cited unused space at the university as one of the reasons.

Dr. Duane G. Meyer, president of Southwest Missouri State University, told the group higher education is "no longer the favorite state agency," that legislators are becoming more concerned with health care, transportation and environmental problems.

He said difficult questions include: Who should have the authority to determine what programs should be made available; how much duplication of facilities is appropriate; should there be open admission programs, and should the low tuition approach be changed.

Another speaker was David K. Easlick, vice president of human resources for American Telephone and Telegraph. He predicted an oversupply of college graduates in the next decade along with a slowing in the nation's growth rate.

"The public seems to want the cost of education controlled or reduced," Easlick said. He said the proliferation of departments in many universities may have "satisfied the egos and pride of the institutions but has marred the cost of education more than necessary."

Social Security To Get Program Control in '74

The Missouri Division of Welfare, effective next January, will no longer handle payments in three adult assistance programs because they have been placed under the jurisdiction of the federal Social Security program, it was learned Tuesday at a meeting of the Pettis County Welfare Commission at Bothwell Hotel.

Herman Wallace, Pettis County welfare director, told The Democrat-Capital Wednesday the two agencies had worked since April to place three programs — aid to the blind, aid to the elderly and aid to the totally disabled — under the Social Security system.

In some instances, he said, this might mean a reduction in benefits. In such cases, however, the difference in the amount allowed by the state and the federal government could be made up through a bill now awaiting the governor's signature.

Wallace reported that in some instances, such as elderly women who subsist on only $85 in welfare payments now, benefits would increase to a flat $130 under the federal plan.

Missouri is one of five states being used as a test area for the new program, Wallace said, and so far the Pettis County office has made "paper transfers" of 866 cases to a computer in Baltimore, Md., the Social Security system's records center.

Under the new plan, the Baltimore computer will handle all financial aspects for the three programs. "The only thing we'll be involved in after December will be social problems, such as housing, budgeting and so on," Wallace said. "We'll still make aid to dependent children and general relief payments," he added.

However, welfare payments in the three programs will continue to be made by Wallace's office through December, he said. In all, 1,027 cases will be removed from welfare roles in Pettis County and shifted to Social Security.

Once the change is completed, the Social Security Office of C. Kent Charles will be responsible for the financial aspects of the three programs. It was learned that seven new persons would be hired to staff a new Social Security office in Warrensburg. Charles' office will be responsible for seven counties, it was reported.

Wallace said other than an employee who is resigning, he did not anticipate any changes in his staff because of the change. He said the resigning case worker would probably not be replaced.

He also said that once the change is made, his office would be left with less than 400 cases of aid to dependent children and general assistance.

Wallace praised the Social Security system, saying the new plan "should speed things up and these people should get their checks when they're due."

Although the exact referral method is still unknown, Wallace said Social Security officials would inform Welfare offices of any problems encountered by persons in the three affected categories. He said these social problems, as mentioned earlier, might also receive speedier handling because of the computer system.

Attending Tuesday's commission meeting were Lawrence Barnett, chairman; K. U. Love Sr., James Wiley and T. W. Cloney, members.

Goes 5 Innings for 4-3 Decision

David Clyde Wins Major League Debut

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas pumped a little home-grown excitement into its ballpark Wednesday night, unveiling David Clyde, their fireballing 18-year-old No. 1 draft choice, against the Minnesota Twins.

The Rangers came away from the young left-hander's debut with a 4-3 victory and, perhaps more important, something for a record crowd of 35,698 to talk about.

The fans cheered every move the teen-ager made and immediately replaced in the club's cashbox the estimated $125,000 bonus the Rangers paid the young man earlier this month.

Manager Whitey Herzog limited Clyde to five innings. The young pitcher struck out eighth, walked seven and surrendered only rookie Mike Adams' two-run homer. Then Bill Goglewski took over, limiting the Twins to just three more hits and saving the victory for the teen-ager who was pitching high school ball in Houston just a couple of weeks ago.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday night, Detroit swept a two-night doubleheader from Milwaukee 6-3 and 5-4. Baltimore blanked New York 4-0, California topped Chicago 3-1 and Oakland nipped Kansas City 3-2. Cleveland's game at Boston was rained out.

Hot-hitting Paul Blair stroked a home run and a double, leading Baltimore past New York and moving the Orioles to within two games of the East Division-leading Yankees.

Blair drilled his fourth homer of the year in the first inning and doubled home another run in the third. Since May 29, the Oriole outfielder has had 40 hits in 92 at bats.

Detroit came from behind twice to sweep both ends of its doubleheader against Milwaukee, ending an eight-game road winning streak for the Brewers.

Dick McAuliffe's two-out bases-loaded home run in the eighth inning turned the opener around and then Aurelio Rodriguez' leadoff homer touched off a five-run fifth inning rally that gave the Tigers the nightcap.

Bill Singer won his 12th game for California, limiting the Chicago White Sox to four hits as the Angels won their 12th game in the last 17 starts to stay atop the American League West.

Mike Epstein boomed a two-run homer for California, sending the Sox to their 10th loss in the last 14 games.

Oakland nipped Kansas City, scoring the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning on a throwing error by Fred Patek.

Catfish Hunter pitched a six-hitter for the victory. Gene Tenace homered for the A's and John Mayberry connected for Kansas City.

In the National League Wednesday, San Francisco topped Atlanta 6-5, Houston ripped Cincinnati 10-2, St. Louis walloped Pittsburgh 15-4. New York split a doubleheader with Philadelphia, winning 7-6 and then losing 7-1, and Chicago defeated Montreal 6-1 in the opener of a doubleheader.

The lid on the Central Missouri Conference coffin is almost nailed shut. It's almost cut and dry.

What once was considered one of the toughest interscholastic athletic conferences in Missouri is on the verge of becoming extinct.

The Hannibal Board of Education voted at their June meeting to table a motion by the school's athletic department to submit to the four-team conference a formal withdrawal request, but it seems likely that Pirates will get out.

The proposal was read by Hannibal High School athletic director Gene Hall at last Friday's monthly school board meeting.

Cited as reasons were enrollment, a declining school spirit and the high degree of competition in the conference.

Should Hannibal drop out, there would be little choice left for the other three schools, Columbia Hickman, Jefferson City and Sedalia Smith-Cotton, but to do the same and seek another league or play as independents.

The conference has weathered a lot of ins and outs with its members in the last 20 years, but a three-team conference would be nothing short of ridiculous.

The CMC plodded along with five members (Mexico and Hannibal added) until the 1972 campaign, when Mexico dropped out. Last year the league made it through with four teams, but now it looks like it may shrink to three and wind up as little more than a remembrance.

The proposal, which was submitted jointly by Hall and principal Roger Nelson, indicated the school's intent to withdraw from the league at the end of the 1974-75 school year.

The proposal also contained the results of a school poll taken during the 1972-73 school year. Of the 740 students who voted, 450 indicated they favored withdrawal, 140 wanted things left the way they were, while the remaining 150 could have cared less one way or the other.

Hannibal, a charter member of the conference, which was established prior to the 1938-39 season, could apply the back-breaker to the league, which has seen nine different schools as members of the league at one time or another.

Hannibal held its own until the 1970 season, a year after Rolla said good-bye to the league. After Mexico departed, Hannibal found itself at or near the bottom of the heap in virtually every conference athletic department.

And when Mexico made its exit, it seemed like only a matter of time before the once-powerful CMC was laid to rest.

The time is nearly at hand — possibly only two more years if the Hannibal school board goes along with the request of the administration.

But Hannibal stands not to lose the least by dropping out of the league. S.C. Hickman and Jefferson City will be the biggest losers, since there's no such animal as a three-league conference. It would be silly to even consider that fact.

Sedalia would be in probably better shape than the other two, since scheduling with Kansas City-area schools is relatively easy — and close for that matter. But for the Kewpies and the Jays, the disavowment of the league would create some large holes in their respective schedules.

Jefferson City has the most to lose, especially in football, an area in which athletic director Pete Adkins has trouble finding enough non-conference foes to make up an attractive schedule.

Columbia is situated in a somewhat better location — right in the middle of the state — than Jefferson City, which is nearly 20 miles south of Interstate-70. Travel for both and travel for incoming teams has been and will remain a problem.

There has been talk within the Smith-Cotton administration possibly getting into one of the suburban leagues in Kansas City, but it's only talk and seems some years away.

If and when Hannibal gets out, there will be little else the remaining three schools could possibly do but dissolve the league, since trying to get any new members seems virtually out of the question. Example — Can you name me one area school that would like to get into the conference with the three remaining powers? I didn't think so.

Will Extend Halftime For More Warmups

NEW YORK (AP) — Artificial turf may not be all it's cracked up to be—but it's not the villain that the National Football League Players Association says it is.

The NFLPA asked Commissioner Pete Rozelle last week for a moratorium on the installation of artificial turf, contending that it may be the cause of increased and more severe injuries.

But on Wednesday, Rozelle said there won't be any moratorium and released a study by the Stanford Research Institute which says that, when it comes to causing major injuries, there's no difference between artificial turf and the real thing.

But the lack of a constantly cleared "buffer zone" along the sidelines, the lack of proper warmup time after halftime and the improper use of equipment came in for some blame and the NFL is taking steps to correct those problems, Rozelle said at the league's annual owners meeting, expected to wind up early today.

There was no immediate comment on the study from Ed

Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, who said he received it about the same time it was released Wednesday.

Teams will have a few more minutes beyond the usual 15-minute halftime break for more extensive warmups, Rozelle said. And each team will be subject to fines if it fails to keep its buffer zone clear of all its own personnel and players and anyone else along its sideline.

Quarterbacks and running backs—the men who usually carry the ball—are subject to greater injuries than the men in "the pit," the linemen, said the study, which noted that linemen are capable of playing with more injuries than the ball-handlers.

"I am asking our officials to be especially alert for fouls committed against running backs and quarterbacks," Rozelle said in his statement.

"It's only natural that action centers on these two positions, because they have the football most of the time. But we want to determine if the higher injury rate is a function of being the focus of action or if these players are the victims of unnecessary violations."

Humming it Homeward

David Clyde, shown in this multiple exposure, pitched his first major league game for the Texas Rangers against Minnesota Wednesday night, before a packed house in Arlington, Tex. He allowed only one hit in the five innings he pitched. Clyde, only three weeks out of high school and the nation's No. 1 draft choice, struck out eight batters and was credited with his first major league victory, 4-3.

Promotes Norton Rematch

Muhammad Ali Spars With Fans in Harlem

NEW YORK (AP) — "I've been takin' a lot of abuse because you been in the ring playin' and I don't like that," shouted the man, shaking his fist at Muhammad Ali.

"I'm through playin'," Ali shouted back—and the crowd roared approval.

The scene was outside a movie theater on 125th street in Harlem, one of a dozen stops Ali made on a bus tour Wednesday to neighborhood theaters in the metropolitan area to "meet my people" and promote the closed-circuit telecast of his rematch with Ken Norton Sept. 10 in Los Angeles.

While he hollered, posed, mock-spurred and signed autographs at each stop, Ali seemed to put something extra into his Harlem appearance.

"I'm back home," the native of Louisville, Ky., shouted as he stepped off the bus before launching into verbal exchanges with an appreciative audience that crackled like jabs.

"Nobody is going to break my jaw and get away with it," he shouted in reference to his 12-round loss to Norton in which his jaw was broken.

"He's gotta pay for it."

Then it was back on to the bus, which pulled away for the next theater, with Ali sitting at a window with a bull horn. For a full 12 blocks the former heavyweight champion put on a non-stop verbal blitz which told everyone within earshot that he was the greatest, the prettiest, the real champion and a living legend.

During the long day, Ali was hardly ever off stage, even when the bus was in motion.

Occasionally, however, he would turn serious.

"Losing to Norton was good," he said. "I needed to get spanked. It was punishment from God. I did things I shouldn't have done."

Promotion value aside, Ali said he was enjoying the tour because "I like talking to people."

And he appeared genuinely pleased when blacks engaged him in some snappy patter or when a white teenager rushed up to him when he got off the bus in suburban Valley Stream and engaged him in a brisk 30-second sparring session.

"My main job is getting out in the streets and doin' what little I can. My life is just startin'," he said.

Stylarama Moves Up Seven Spots

Stylarama took top team honors in Wednesday night's summer league trap shoot at the Sedalia Rod and Gun Club and moved all the way from ninth to second in the overall standings. Stylarama scored 107x125 and now has a team total of 676 for the season.

Farmers and Merchants Bank remained in the top spot with a total of 683.

High individual honors in the week's competition went to Larry Moore, David Richards, Lou Smith and David Dove, all of whom posted perfect 25x25 scores. John Zahinger, Ronnie Richardson and Jim Dove tied for runner-up honors with 24x25.

League Meetings Open

Kennedy Says NBA Has No Drug Problems

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Commissioner Walter Kennedy of the National Basketball Association says the league has no drug abuse problem and would intervene if a team tries to "whitewash" a violation.

Kennedy submitted a report on drugs to the NBA Board of Governors that opened a three-day meeting Wednesday at the Beverly Hills Hotel. The report carried no recommendation and, Kennedy said, brought no noteworthy response from club officials and owners.

"Actually," the commissioner said, "the drug abuse program we have now is an ongoing one. We will enlarge on it to some degree. In what direction, I don't know."

Should a problem with drugs develop, Kennedy said, "Our office would be involved from the start. I don't think there'll ever be a whitewash."

Based on two meetings with Rep. Harley O. Staggers of West Virginia, chairman of a special House subcommittee probing alleged use of drugs in professional sports, Kennedy told club owners that the league already had met "several" of Staggers' request, which were made to all pro sports. He said he pledged to Staggers the cooperation of the league and its players.

But he said neither the owners nor the players have stated a position on Staggers' pro-

No-foul-out Rule Gets Tentative Agreement

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The American Basketball Association is tinkering with the rule book again.

The ABA, which introduced the three-point field goal and the red, white and blue ball, said Wednesday it will try out a rule allowing players to stay in the game no matter how many fouls they commit.

The rule was tentatively approved by the league's 10 club owners, who also voted at their annual meeting to approve conditionally the sale of the Memphis Tams to a Providence, R.I., group. To complete the sale, road construction executive Paul Lynch would have to produce the needed money and a firm lease on the Providence Civic Center by July 9.

The no-foul-out rule will be used in preseason games, including one "controlled" game for each team in which coaches will use only seven or eight players, as in a regular-season game. League officials will then decide whether to apply it in the regular season.

League owners adopted several other rules on a trial basis. One set of proposals would follow the National Basketball Association's lead and reduce the penalty foul limit from six to five in a quarter.

Among other changes is one to allow only the coach, not the players, to protest an official's call on the floor.

posed urinalysis program to detect drug usage during the season and periodically during the off-season.

"This matter will be discussed and further discussed," said Kennedy, declining to give his opinion. He said he did not ask for comment on his report "because drugs will be brought up again at our late summer meeting."

On other matters, Kennedy said he expected the owners to

Youth, Veterans Shine

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The youth movement in tennis is keeping pace with the established stars this week at Wimbledon.

While Margaret Court and Ilie Nastase, both top-seeded, advanced, their feats were matched by Bjorn Borg and Chris Evert, who also won.

Borg, the 17-year-old Swedish ace, scored a 6-4, 6-2, 6-4 victory over Belgium's Patrick Hombbergen. Seeded No. 6 in the tourney, he is providing some glamour to the men's singles division, which was stripped when the Association of Tennis Professionals ordered its boycott in sympathy for Niki Pilić.

A's Ride Error

Torrid Cards Bats Blast Bucs, 15-4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ted Simmons and Joe Torre were awfully hot for the St. Louis Cardinals. Fred Patek's ninth-inning error gave the Kansas City Royals their third consecutive loss.

Simmons drove in five runs and Torre hit for the cycle as the Cardinals bombed the Pittsburgh Pirates 15-4 Wednesday night. Patek's error let Bert Campaneris score all the way from first base and the Royals bowed to the Oakland A's 3-2.

Simmons had a home run, two doubles and a sacrifice fly in the Cards' easy triumph. St. Louis broke loose for three runs in the first on singles by Lou Brock and Ted Sizemore and consecutive doubles by Torre and Simmons.

Torre and Simmons hit their home runs in succession in the Nastase, the flamboyant Romanian who is defying the boycott, had to suffer with a bad back during his 6-2, 7-9, 7-5, 6-1 victory over Ivan Molina of Colombia.

Nastase's moods which had been jocular during earlier play, changed like Tuesday's Wimbledon weather. He seemed subdued and sometime morose and frequently stretched and felt his back.

Mrs. Court, bouncing back from a back injury which has bothered her the past week, topped fellow Australian Karen Krantzke 6-2, 6-3.

Miss Evert from Fort Lauderdale, Fla. also scored a straight-set victory, over Judith Gohn of Romania 6-0, 6-1.

Rain, which halted play early Tuesday, left unsettled who would be the opponents for Court, Evert and Billie Jean King, in the women's play today, and for Borg or Nastase.

Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., and seeded No. 5, used his doublegrip backhand to beat Britain's David Lloyd 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2. Connors played aggressively against Lloyd, scoring consistently when he could bring his two-handed backhand into play.

Pancho Walthall of San Antonio, Tex. beat Chiro Mukerjea of India, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, 9-8 in a second round match, while Tony Fretz of Los Angeles defeated Vicki Berner of Canada 6-4, 6-3 in their second round match.

Sedalia BJ Club In Tipton

Sedalia swings back into action in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League tonight with a road game in Tipton.

Sedalia, currently mired in fourth place in the CMBJ's western division, has won only three of 10 games. The Merchants most recent setback came Sunday night in Centralia, 13-3. That came on the heels of a 10-0 shutout victory over Marshall the night before.

Tipton isn't much better off, winning only three of nine outings. Tipton lost to California Tuesday night, 6-5, giving them a half game lead over Sedalia in the standings.

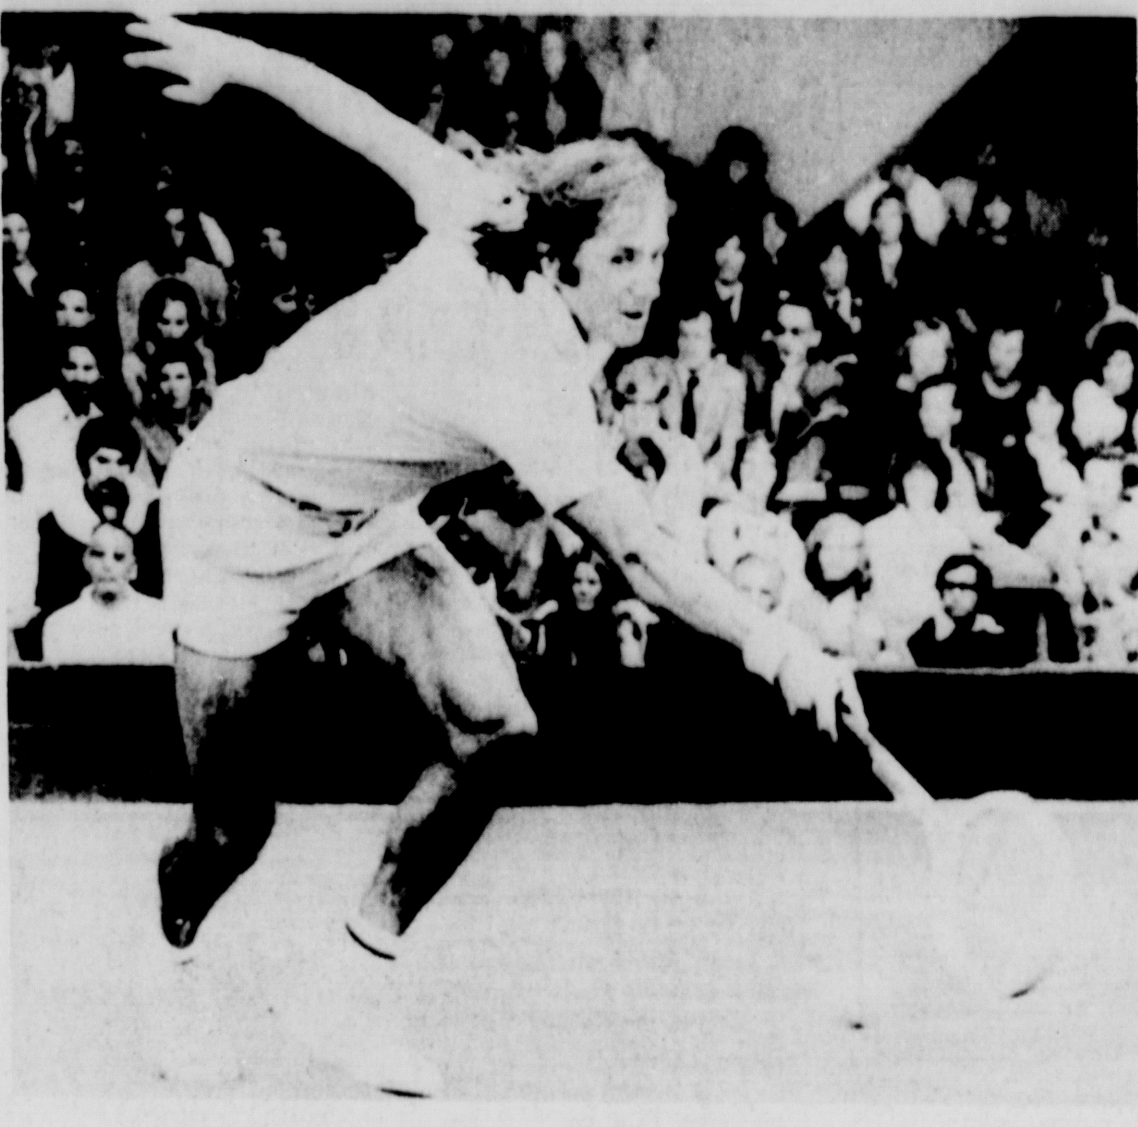

Boonville picked up one full game on Marshall Wednesday night, by virtue of a 6-5 win over Marshall. The Eagles weathered 10 team errors to notch their seventh victory of the season. Boonville now stands at 7-2.

Marshall is one game up in the win column, but two games back on the loss side.

Wednesday's only other action found Centralia defeating the Columbia Skags, 15-7.

Tonights game in Tipton is the only contest of the week for Sedalia. The Merchants will play Jefferson City on the road Monday.

Crampton Eyes $1 Million

CHICAGO (AP) — Bruce Crampton is an even-money bet to pass the million dollar mark in career earnings this week in the $175,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

It's something he'd very much like to do — join Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper and Lee Trevino as the game's only official millionaires. The sturdy Australian veteran would be the first foreigner to hit that figure.

"The money is important, and the titles. Don't let anyone tell you that it isn't," Crampton said before teeing off today in the first round on the 6,654-yard, par-71 Midlothian Country Club course.

"But it's at least as important, from a personal standpoint, to know that you've competed so successfully over here." For example, he pointed to the $32,000 first prize he won last week when he made the American Golf Classic his fourth victory of the year.

His fourth victory of the year last week in the American Golf Classic, and its $32,000 first prize, boosted him into the season's leading money-winning spot with $204,209. He's the first foreign player to hit $200,000 for a season.

And he now has $995,652 for his career—just $4,348 short of becoming the game's fifth million dollar winner.

He could finish as low as 10th in this tournament and make it.

Since he's finished ninth or better in exactly half his starts this season—10 of 20—he figures to be an even money bet to make it before heading for Scotland and the British Open.

Other standouts in this old tournament—this is the 70th Western Open—include Trevino, Palmer, Casper, Masters champ Tommy Aaron and defending titleholder Jim Jamieson.

Soccer-style Kicker Included

Chiefs Sign Four Players

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs have signed three more of their picks in the 1973 draft of college football stars, plus a free agent who is a soccer-style placekicker.

Among the draftees is the Chiefs' ninth-round selection, Bill Story, a 245-pounder who played offensive guard and defensive tackle for Southern Illinois. The Chiefs hope to play him in the offensive line.

Tom Ramsey, a two-time all-conference defensive tackle and end at Northern Arizona, was Kansas City's 12th-round pick in the draft.

The Chiefs have linebacking chores in mind for Wilbur Grooms, a defensive end at Tampa. He was a 16th-round selection.

The placekicker is George Jackowenko, who graduated from Syracuse in 1967.

All four will report to the Kansas City training camp when it opens at nearby Liberty, Mo., on July 23.

Schaefer 500 Drivers Iron Out Fuel Problems

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — How would you like to start out on a 500 mile journey, knowing your car would give you only about 60 miles on a 40 gallon tank of fuel?

You'd probably stay home. Thirty-three drivers will start the Schaefer 500 Mile Championship Auto Race Sunday in cars that are limited to 40 gallons in their tanks, 300 more in reserve tanks in their pits, and with an engine that at best gets only about 1.8 miles to the gallon.

"You're going to see the darndest procession of gas stops in the history of racing," predicted 42-year-old Roger McCluskey of Tucson, Ariz. "It'll look like a line of cars backed up on the freeway trying to get to the only gas station open on Sunday."

The 33 starters for the No. 2 race in the United States Auto Club's "Triple Crown" of 500 milers were given a four-hour session on the 2½ mile Pocono International Raceway Wednesday afternoon to check fuel consumption and tire wear. It was the last time they'll be allowed on the course until the cars are rolled out for Sunday's 1 p.m. EDT start.

The other jewels in racing's "Triple Crown" are the Indy 500 and the California 500.

Earlier, the last six positions in the field were decided in a special qualifying round, necessitated when rain cut short last Sunday's time trials.

He added, "If I were a fan I'd pay the top admission price for a seat along pit road. That's where the action is going to be, and that's where the race will be won or lost." McCluskey starts the $374,650 Schaefer from 16th position. He says his Lindsay Hopkins-owned McLaren gets no more than two miles per gallon of fuel "even under the best conditions."

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It was the last rubber at Castle Glamis. MacDuff, the best player in Scotland, wanted to get home. Hence his three no-trump call.

Lady MacBeth opened the 10 of hearts. MacDuff looked over dummy quickly. He saw that he could give himself two heart stoppers by putting on dummy's queen. He also saw that his host MacBeth would know this and might shift to a spade, so he played the nine-spot.

MacDuff didn't need two heart tricks. All he needed was to gain the lead; finesse successfully in diamonds; end the rubber and be on his way home.

MacBeth pulled out the seven of hearts; paused in thought; pushed it back and planked his ace on the table. He had seen what MacDuff was up to.

After that it was a simple matter to play his ace of spades; continue the suit and keep the rubber alive. "Well done, your lordship," said MacDuff who was always a good sport. "Ah! 'Twas so!" said Lady MacBeth. "Play, on MacDuff!"

Kelley Promises To Erase Political Shadows Over FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clarence M. Kelley is taking command of the FBI with a promise to erase the political shadows hanging over it.

The new director says he would resign in protest before bending to political pressure.

"I can honestly say that I am non-political. I owe allegiance to no political party, leader or background. As director, I will make my own judgments and decisions," Kelley told a news conference Wednesday, shortly after the Senate voted 96 to 0 confirming his nomination.

After 12 years as police chief of Kansas City, Mo., Kelley, 61, is returning to the agency he served for 21 years under the late J. Edgar Hoover. He spoke of Hoover as his lifelong hero and promised to honor the "traditions of fidelity, bravery and integrity" he credited Hoover with molding into the FBI.

MU Money Bills See Heavy Pencil of Bond

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond wielded a heavy pencil when he got to the University of Missouri money bills Wednesday.

The governor cut $8 million from the university's capital improvements budget and $750,000 from its $104 million operations budget. Last year, the university spent $97 million in state funds.

The $750,000 would have gone into a regional medical program. Bond said the money was appropriated with the understanding that federal aid would be discontinued, but since the President signed a one-year extension for the program, state funds were no longer needed.

He trimmed $6 million, leaving $400,000 in planning money, for a veterinary medicine complex at the Columbia campus.

The money would have come from federal revenue sharing funds on a matching basis with other federal funds, Bond said, and federal revenue sharing funds can't be used that way. The total cost of the building would be $18 million.

He also sliced $2 million for an administration building at the St. Louis campus because it "has a lower priority than other needed facilities" at the St. Louis campus.

"The most important need for the University of Missouri at St. Louis is the general services building, and the university cannot take on any more projects until the general services building is constructed," Bond said. "Presently, the University of Missouri has substantial under-used space."

Three other capital improvement expenditures for the University of Missouri were left intact:

Repair—$1.2 million at the Columbia campus; $155,000 at Kansas City; $345,000 at Rolla, and $349,000 at St. Louis.

Rehabilitation and remodeling—$3.3 million, including $1.5 for air conditioning at the University Hospital at Columbia.

Planning money for a music and performing arts center at the Kansas City campus—$150,000.

Swine research center at Columbia—$200,000.

All the capital improvements money comes from the revenue sharing trust fund.

Since Hoover's death 14 months ago, the agency's independent image has been tarnished by the Watergate scandal. Acting Director L. Patrick Gray III resigned after disclosure that he destroyed materials taken from the safe of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

Kelley, who shook up the Kansas City police department with technological innovations, said he will not hesitate to change FBI operations if he finds it necessary.

He said, too, that he will "try to be responsive to the public needs of disclosure" in some form of regular communications with newsmen.

Kelley defended the use of wiretaps as a "very beneficial" investigative tool when carried out according to law. Sometimes FBI agents must break into an office or a house to install a wiretap, he said.

"Under some circumstances, this might be construed as illegal entry," he said. "But it is not illegal entry."

He said he would never condone breaking and entering to obtain files or documents.

After the news conference, Kelley returned to Kansas City to wrap up loose ends before being sworn in as FBI chief. FBI spokesmen said they're waiting on the White House to decide when and where the swearing-in will take place.

Kelley will take over from Acting Director William D. Ruckelshaus, the caretaker appointed by President Nixon after Gray resigned two months ago. Ruckelshaus has not disclosed his plans.

Loyal Rebekah Lodge No. 260 will meet in regular session on Thursday, June 28th, at the I.O.O.F. Hall, 901 E. 13th St., at 8 p.m. All members are urged to attend. Visiting members always welcome.

Former POW's Death Is Listed As Suicide

COMMERCE CITY, Colo. (AP) — An hour before he shot himself to death, a former prisoner of war charged with collaborating with the enemy in Vietnam told a doctor he feared the military would find some excuse to keep him in the service.

Marine Sgt. Abel Larry Kavanaugh died on Wednesday of one bullet in the head from a .25-caliber handgun, Adams County District Atty. Floyd Marks said.

"From the evidence we have now, it would appear that it was a suicide," Marks said. The bullet entered the left temple, police said.

Police Sgt. Jack Baldwin said, "We're officially calling it a self-inflicted wound. At this point, we don't know if it was accidental, but I would strongly doubt it."

Kavanaugh, 24, was the second former POW to die since returning from captivity. Air Force Capt. Edward Allen Brudno died of an overdose of barbiturates on June 3 in Harrison, N.Y.

Dr. John W. Bolin, a general practitioner in nearby Aurora, said he completed a physical examination of Kavanaugh about an hour before the young Marine shot himself at the home of his father-in-law in this Denver suburb.

"I found he was in absolutely perfect physical condition, but he said he was afraid the military would make something up and find an excuse to hold him in the service," Bolin said.

"He was very quiet and seemed depressed and very anxious," Bolin said. "When I asked what was wrong, he said he had been a POW but didn't go any further, saying it was a military matter."

Kavanaugh, here on a 60-day convalescent leave, was one of eight former POWs charged with aiding and conspiring with the enemy at a prison compound called the Plantation, near Hanoi.

Col. Theodore W. Guy, of Tucson, Ariz., the ranking U.S. officer in the POW compound, filed the charges. The secretary of the Navy is considering the charges to determine whether a formal inquiry which could lead to court-martial should be ordered.

Although the family was secluded, friends said the young sergeant had been reticent about discussing his case or POW experience.

Willie Simpson Resigns Post

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Willie Simpson, athletic director at Wilberforce University for the last two years, announced Wednesday he is resigning, effective Aug. 31.

Simpson, 34, a native of Hattiesburg, Miss., said he quit over a salary dispute.

Kavanaugh was captured April 2, 1968, while on patrol in South Vietnam and was listed as missing in action for 3½ years before his family learned he was a prisoner.

The charges filed by Guy against Kavanaugh included disrespect toward an officer, disobedience to an order, communicating and corresponding with the enemy, conspiracy to impair loyalty, insubordination and counseling of the enemy.

Less Choice of Foods May Be Upcoming

WASHINGTON (AP) — Suddenly, Americans are hearing warnings of possible shortages of food and milk.

Is the danger real? Or is the sight of baby chicks being drowned instead of fed just a scare tactic to win concessions for farmers, growers and processors?

Based on interviews with experts and a survey of the supply situation, The Associated Press has found that the consumer doing the weekly marketing may have to settle for a limited selection of brands and sizes. Some stores may occasionally be completely out of scattered items. But the grocery store shelves won't be bare.

Some government and industry officials say the price freeze ordered by President Nixon two weeks ago has slowed production and is cutting into the food supply. Farmers say they are caught in the middle — forced to pay more for feed grains, which are not controlled, and unable to get more for their products because, although raw agricultural goods are not frozen, retail prices are.

Don Paarberg, director of economics in the Agriculture Department, says a partial thaw in the freeze is needed immediately.

"We don't have a panic situation, but I think we've got a bad one," Paarberg said. He also is a member of the freeze policy group in the Cost of Living Council.

He said farmers who were planning to increase production of livestock, poultry and milk have cut back.

"It would not be correct to attribute all this to the freeze, but the freeze has aggravated it," Paarberg said.

"It's not so serious that anybody's going to go hungry, but it will be serious enough so that there will have to be some shifts in the diet as we find some products in short supply," he said.

Nixon intended the freeze as a temporary throttle on inflation until he can get Phase 4 economic plans shaped up. At the most, Nixon said June 13, the freeze would last up to 60 days.

In a move to ease the problem, the administration announced Wednesday an immediate embargo on further exports of soybeans and other oilseed products — key ingredients in food for livestock and poultry. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz estimated, however, that only about 30 million bushels of soybeans would be saved by the embargo. Sales to foreign markets from the 1972 soybean crop were about 450 million bushels.

James H. Lake, deputy assistant secretary of Agriculture, said poultry and egg producers have been hardest hit and noted reports that baby chicks had been killed.

"We do not know how many have been killed, but we have been told directly by a number of growers that they have disposed of some baby chicks," Lake said.

H. C. Kennett Jr., head of the poultry division in the department's Agricultural Marketing Service, said: "I think this drowning of baby chicks is rather spotty. But we do have on good authority that broiler people are cutting back flocks sharply, mostly through a reduction in hatchery eggs."

The Agriculture Department says farmers produced 69.8 billion eggs in 1972 — down from 70.08 billion in 1971. Figures for the first five months of 1973 show production down 6 per cent from the same period last year.

In 1972, 3,075 billion broiler chickens were produced, up 4 per cent from 1971. Broiler sales for the first five months of this year are down 2 per cent.

Milk output last year totalled 120.3 billion pounds, up from 118.5 billion in 1971. The Agriculture Department estimates that total milk output this year will be down 1 per cent — the first production decline since 1969. There are about two pounds of milk per quart.

Patrick B. Healy, secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation, said consumers will begin finding empty shelves in dairy counters beginning sporadically in August and predicted the situation will get worse unless feed costs are lowered or the lid is lifted on milk prices.

He also said shoppers will find a scarcity of smaller containers as dairies turn to more profitable half-gallon sizes.

The Agriculture Department says it has verified through surveys that many hog producers in the Corn Belt, which produces 75 per cent of the nation's pork,

Sen. Ervin Questions President's Actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Watergate chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr. questioned Thursday whether President Nixon had met his constitutional duty to uphold the law and indicated that the committee wants to hear his response to accusations by John W. Dean III.

And Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., a Republican member of the committee from Connecticut, charged White House attempts had been made to smear him and said he had asked the Watergate special prosecutor to investigate "obstruction of proceedings before special committees."

"If the executive branch of government wants to meet the standards the American people have set for it in their minds, the time has come to either disavow it (pressure attempts) completely or make the specific charges," he said angrily.

In an emotional climax to Dean's fourth day of testimony, Weicker declared: "Republicans do not cover up. Republicans do not threaten. Republicans do not permit illegal acts and God knows, Republicans don't view their opponents as enemies to be harassed."

The committee still had not completed its questioning of Dean who testified "it was my assumption without question" that Nixon was informed of the cover-up attempts even before last Sept. 15. He will return Friday.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., the committee's vice chairman, said information will be solicited from the President "in whatever manner can be arranged."

But Ervin, saying "you can't cross-examine a written statement," indicated he would like to hear the President himself.

The break-in at Democratic Party headquarters was June 17 last year and indictments were returned on the mid-September date against seven men, who subsequently were convicted.

Dean said that between the two dates, there were countless occasions when he imparted cover-up information to top presidential aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

"I was aware of the fact that often Haldeman took notes, I knew Haldeman met daily with the President," he said. "Given normal reporting channels I worked through, it was my assumption without question that it was going to the President."

Dean said he told Nixon that the case had been contained — kept out of the White House.

"Everyone seemed to know what I was talking about. It didn't seem to evoke any questions," he said. "I said it couldn't be contained indefinitely, there were a lot of hurdles."

Baker said the committee would like to hear about the Sept. 15 meeting from the others who attended: The President and Haldeman.

"I'm not able to say at this point how we might be able to get the President's perceptions of that meeting," Baker said. He noted Haldeman is scheduled to appear before the committee later.

Dean said he made no notes after the Sept. 15, or at other discussions with Nixon. "Some of the things that were being said in these meetings ... were very incriminating to the President," he said.

Baker said he wanted to take Dean through two prime questions: "What did the President know and when did he know it?"

He invited responses about Dean's personal knowledge, circumstantial evidence and supposition, and hearsay.

Over and over, they went through Sept. 15 which Baker called "really a terribly important meeting in history."

Dean stuck to his contention that Nixon knew by then what was going on. The President has said he wasn't aware of the cover-up until March 21 this year.

Danger Area

An uncovered manhole at South New York between 13th and 14th poses a safety hazard to small children and motorists. The cover on the hole was removed to allow gas fumes to escape from the sewage pipes below.

Uncovered Manhole Poses Safety Threat

About two weeks ago city employees removed the covering from a manhole on South New York between 13th and 14th to allow gasoline fumes trapped in the sewage system to escape.

Area residents told The Democrat-Capitol Thursday that the open hole, about 15-feet deep, presents a hazard to both motorists and pedestrians.

The open hole is marked by a barrel and a flashing light. But even these caution devices aren't always effective, residents said.

"I noticed the light wasn't working the other night," said William McCune, 1611 East 13th. "It could cause a mishap, especially with these cars coming down New York at 90-miles-an-hour some nights."

"It's kind of a dangerous situation," said M. O. Finch, 1600 East 13th. "Sometimes teenagers drive by and tip over the barrel."

And two days ago, said Finch, a dog fell in the hole. "A man and a boy came by in a pickup truck and got it out," he said.

But perhaps the biggest problem, they said, is the danger the hole poses to children walking down South New York to nearby Centennial Park swimming pool at 16th and New York.

"The kids always stop and take a look down there, especially the little ones," Finch said. "There's a lot of child traffic on New York," McCune added.

City Engineer Robert Cunningham said the sewer line had to be ventilated after fumes seeped into the pipes from a leak in a gasoline storage tank at a service station at New York and Broadway.

He added the hole had to be kept open until new tanks were installed at the station.

"If we knew it would have been this long we would have placed a five-foot sewer pipe on top of the hole," Cunningham said. "We've done that before ... and plan to do that in the future in similar situations."

Cunningham said the covering would be placed on the hole in "one or two days."

Teamsters To Vote On New Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters and truck industry negotiators announced Thursday tentative agreement on a new national contract that provides wage hikes totaling 95 cents an hour over 33 months for 400,000 drivers.

Nixon administration officials immediately gave it their endorsement, even though the pact slightly exceeds government wage guidelines. "I am most pleased," said Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan.

Announcement of the tentative settlement was made by Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons and chief industry negotiator C. G. Zwingle of Trucking Employers Inc., representing 12,000 employers across the country.

Fitzsimmons said the pact will be submitted to the union rank-and-file for ratification with the unanimous recommendation of the union's negotiating committee, composed of officials from 350 teamsters locals.

The current national master freight agreement expires at midnight Saturday. The ratification process involves a mail referendum supervised by the Labor Department and is expected to take three weeks.

The settlement was reached in closely guarded negotiations following an all night bargaining session at the union's national headquarters.

Industry sources estimated the pact raises wages and benefits by 21 per cent over the life of the contract, with a 7.2 per cent boost in each of the first two years and a 6.6 per cent jump the third year.

Some 300,000 hourly paid city truck drivers who now average $6.16 an hour will receive hourly increases of 35 cents the first year, and 30 cents per hour in each of the remaining two years.

The contract also provides increases totaling 2 cents per mile over the three years for the 100,000 long-distance truck drivers who are paid by the mile and now average an estimated $18,000 a year. Mileage pay now averages about 12.5 cents per mile.

Although the agreement exceeds the government's flexible guidelines — allowing 5.5 per cent wage increases plus 0.7 per cent in fringe benefits — it is in line with recent contract settlements in the rubber and electrical industries and the U.S. Postal Service.

In addition to the wage hikes, the contract includes:

—Cost-of-living pay raises up to 11 cents per hour in both 1974 and 1975 if prices rise a certain amount but in no case less than 8 cents per hour.

—Total increases of $16 per week in pension and health and welfare benefits over three years.

—A tenth paid holiday in the third year, a fifth week of vacation after 20 years service, plus boosts in meal allowances totaling 75 cents over the three years and a $1 increase in lodging allowance in each of the three years.

Permits Issued

Applicants for a new taxi service (partially funded by the city) for the aged and handicapped flowed into the city collector's office in a steady stream Thursday morning. At least 30 persons, 60 years or older, or handicapped, had applied for the permit by 10 a.m.

and others could be seen going in throughout the rest of the morning. The program will run on a 90-day trial basis and allows holders of the permit to pay only half fare for the taxi ride with the city paying for the other half. The program goes into effect Monday.

Despite Veto Threats

Cutoff Efforts Push Forward

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts by Congress to force an immediate cutoff in funds for U.S. bombing of Cambodia pushed forward Thursday despite veto threats and the Nixon administration's indications it is ready to compromise.

House conferees on a bill extending the federal debt ceiling reportedly bowed to Senate insistence and agreed to recommend inclusion of the antibombing amendment to the full House.

The House Rules Committee voted 10 to 5 to permit advocates of an immediate cutoff to present it again when the House takes up the once-vetoed $3.4 billion supplemental appropriations bill.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved a continuing resolution to fund all federal agencies after Saturday, the end of the fiscal year, after adding a sweeping ban on U.S. military activity in Indochina to the House-approved ban on bombing in Laos and Cambodia.

As a result, all three bills seemed likely to be forwarded to President Nixon by Saturday with the antibombing provision attached.

All three thus face vetoes as Congress prepares to begin a nine-day vacation Saturday.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers suggested the compromise without specifics, and a key House Republican said a cutoff in bombing funds as of Aug. 15 would be acceptable to President Nixon.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, however, promptly rejected the suggestion and said he thinks Senate war critics will insist on an immediate halt to U.S. military activity in Southeast Asia.

Congress has been attaching the antiwar measures to money bills vital to keep the government going. The President has been faced with the choice of vetoing the bills or halting the bombing.

The idea of a compromise, without either specifics or a firm administration pledge, was presented by Rogers to members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at a closed meeting.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., indicated afterward that "some sort of compromise might be acceptable" to avoid a confrontation between Congress and the President that could jeopardize the government's ability to function.

Mansfield, however, told reporters he opposes a compromise and added, in response to a question, that "my feeling is that the Senate will turn it down."

Asked about the possibility of setting an Aug. 15 date for cutting off the bombing, he said "As far as I'm concerned, yesterday wouldn't be soon enough."

Rep. Elford A. Cederberg, R-Mich., said he has been assured by the White House that Nixon will accept an Aug. 15 cutoff for Cambodia bombing funds.

He told the House Rules Committee, considering a bill containing the Aug. 15 date: "I can state categorically that the President will not veto it."

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, sponsor of the most sweeping antibombing amendment currently under consideration, said he would be unable to accept a compromise permitting the bombing to continue without assurance that "the President will abide by it, and unless it is the only feasible way to secure a cutoff and end the war as a matter of law."

Meanwhile the Congress moved closer to a weekend confrontation.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved a Housepassed amendment cutting off all funds — past and future — for U.S. military activities in Laos and Cambodia and added a more sweeping ban covering all of Indochina.

The amendments were attached to a continuing resolution to fund all federal agencies after midnight Saturday, and Senate acceptance of them appeared certain.

Nixon and Congress in clash of wills

President Nixon has given Congress something of a shock by vetoing a bill that would have cut off all funds for the U.S. bombing of Cambodia.

On Wednesday the Western White House announced the veto of the $3.4 billion supplemental appropriations bill, which had cleared the Senate on Tuesday by a vote of 81 to 11. The House had passed the bill earlier, but by a considerably smaller margin.

By his veto, the President has turned his back on a continuing resolution of Congress that the United States cease its last remaining combat activity in Southeast Asia—the bombing of Cambodia. Nixon did not undertake the step lightly.

Before the veto, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted that such a move by Nixon would precipitate a "constitutional crisis." Certainly it has left President Nixon more isolated than he ever has been in pursuing what remains of the U.S. role in Indo-China.

The House quickly voted to sustain the President's veto, with 241 votes to override and 173 to sustain, 35 short of the required two-thirds majority.

Beyond that, however, things don't look so good for the President. A hostile Congress, angered at having its will thwarted, may not be too inclined to work with the President in many legislative areas that need attention.

The confrontation accentuates the split on the role of the United States in Southeast Asia, which has caused the nation so much agony. Nixon is convinced that his hard-won ceasefire in South Vietnam is imperiled by the serious Red threat to Cambodia, and sees the U.S. bombing as a means of achieving a possible truce in that nation. Congress, reflecting the nation's war-weariness, simply wants OUT.

It's a clash of wills that could have far-reaching effects on the balance of Mr. Nixon's term.

Airbag works well in the real world

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Barring some further extension of the deadline, all automobiles manufactured after Aug. 15, 1975, will have to be equipped with "passive restraint" devices in the front-seat positions. For all practical purposes, this means airbags. How are they coming along?

Kilpatrick

St. Louis and a young man from Scarsdale are alive today — or at least not maimed or disfigured — because of these devices.

The record, however, shows one disturbing instance of inadvertent inflation. Of this, more in a moment.

As most motorists know, the airbag is the industry's answer to a decree of the Department of Transportation. First proposed in the summer of 1969, the rule now requires that after 1975, the driver and his right-hand passenger be protected from harm in certain frontal impact collisions. These crashes account for 60 per cent of all serious accidents and 70 per cent of all fatal ones.

The airbags now being tested work this way: At the moment of impact, depending upon speed, a series of one, two, or three detonators are fired. These release gas that instantly inflates two large nylon bags concealed beneath the instrument panel. The occupants, instead of being hurled through the windshield, are cushioned by the bag. The bag then deflates. It all happens in a fraction of a second.

The devices were extensively tested in laboratory experiments — sometimes with disappointing failures — prior to the real-world testing now under way. Ford equipped 831 Mercury Montereys with airbags, and General Motors put a thousand Chevrolet Impalas on the road. The Allstate Insurance Company, leading promoter of the airbag, has been operating 200 of the Mercurys, and has been keeping unofficial score on how things are going.

The first real-world crash occurred Oct. 9, 1972, in Santa Barbara, Calif., when one of Allstate's fleet cars hit a garbage truck.

The car was demolished, but the airbag inflated perfectly on impact. The driver sustained only minor injuries.

Since then, perfect inflations have been reported in seven other serious accidents. Just this month, by way of example, the airbags may have saved three lives.

On June 8, 14-year-old Patricia Mundy took her stepfather's Impala for a joyride with her chum, Mariane Leslie Smith. She lost control of the car in crossing a bumpy railway track in Valley Park, Mo., and crashed head-on at 35 miles an hour into a telephone pole. The car was a total loss, but Patricia escaped with a broken nose and Mariane with a sore shoulder.

On June 17, in suburban Philadelphia, 21-year-old Robert F. Perlin, of Scarsdale, N.Y., driving an Impala, crashed into three poles on a safety island and overturned. The car was demolished, the airbag inflated. Perlin suffered only minor chest injuries.

The only reported malfunction occurred on June 13, according to Allstate, in one of the Impalas. Spokesmen for General Motors are strangely unwilling to talk about the incident. The sketchy information available to Allstate indicates that a 46-year-old woman was riding in the passenger seat of the car in or near Lowell, Mass., when the first detonator inexplicably fired and partly inflated the passenger bag only. She reportedly suffered a sprained or broken thumb when her arm was flung into her face.

Obviously, we need to know a good deal more about this "fluke," as Allstate describes it. The fear of inadvertent inflation is a real fear and must be met with candor. Until this happened, the risk of inadvertent inflation had been estimated at one in 3.3 billion vehicle miles, or once in the lifetimes of 6,000 typical drivers. It should not have happened in the first nine months of testing 1,831 cars.

I continue to object, on philosophical grounds, to the government's requirement that airbag installations be compulsory. Reserving that exception, I am bound to say that the real-world tests, on balance, look pretty good.

The falling water of the world's rivers could yield enough hydroelectric power to meet 80 per cent of man's total energy needs. Only 1 to 2 per cent of man's energy now comes from hydroelectric sources.

In the lap of security

WASHINGTON — Leonid Brezhnev stopped off to see French President Georges Pompidou on his way back to Moscow and, of course, they talked about their mutual friend, Richard Nixon.

"Mon cher ami," said President Pompidou, "how was your visit to the United States?"

Buchwald

"Is fantastic!" said Secretary Brezhnev. "I was at the White House, Camp David and San Clemente."

"Alors," said Pompidou, "when I met with Nixon all I got to see was Iceland."

"Gospodin Pompidou, you should see the dacha Nixon has in San Clemente. It must be worth two, three million dollars."

"I didn't know he was doing that well as President."

"He doesn't do that well but he has friends. He explained to me how he bought the place. It seems he has this friend Abplanalp who loaned him the money to buy San Clemente. Then Abplanalp bought back everything but five acres so Nixon didn't owe Abplanalp anything. Nixon got the house for nothing and Abplanalp got the land around San Clemente and everyone was happy."

"It's hard for me to follow that," Pompidou said.

"Frankly, I didn't understand it either. But Nixon was laughing the whole time he explained it to me so it must have been a good deal."

"How can he keep up three houses on his salary?" Pompidou asked.

"Is simple," Brezhnev replied. "Security."

"Quelle security?" Pompidou asked.

"Every time something has to be done to San Clemente dacha, Secret Service says is for security. Nixon needs golf carts, is for security; new tiles for roof, is for security; heated swimming pool, is for security; beach cabana, is for security; electrical work on house, is for security. I tell you, Gospodin, when I get back to Soviet Union I am going to have a long talk with my security people and get my dacha by the Black Sea in shape."

"Bon idee!" Pompidou said. "I think I'll meet with my security people and have them fix up my home at St. Tropez. I could use a new guest house and a sauna."

"I am going to tell my security people to build me a movie theater and a golf course," Brezhnev said.

"Do you play golf?" Pompidou asked.

"No, but you never know when I'll be booted out by the party and a golf course should add to value of my property."

"What else did Nixon tell you?" Pompidou wanted to know.

"He said the best investment he ever made was buying the dacha at Key Biscayne. He got the government to make $579,907 worth of improvements on this dacha so if he ever wants to sell it, it will be worth three times what he paid for it."

Pompidou nodded. "I have always said about Nixon that he may not know how to protect the dollar abroad, but he really knows how to buy Florida real estate."

"You can say that again," said Brezhnev. "When I get back to Soviet Union I'm going to speak to my good friend Bebe Rebozovitch and see if he can find me another dacha in Vladivostok with lots of security."

"Now tell me, Comrade Brezhnev, what did you find out on your visit to the United States that would be interesting for me to know?"

"Gospodin Pompidou, I will tell you something, but you must swear that you will never reveal where you heard it."

"Sacre coeur," said Pompidou, "I swear it."

"Nixon has fantastic lawn-sprinkler system at San Clemente."

"Alors!" said Pompidou. "For security?"

Brezhnev shrugged his shoulders. "What else?"

Dollars diverted to stop Wallace

total taxable income of $109,944 in 1967 and $65,980 in 1968.

The Justice Department report added that, on Jan. 20, 1970, the case was referred to Internal Revenue's crack intelligence division, which handles criminal investigations. A group of agents from various Southern offices was immediately assembled in Alabama.

Since we had exposed the kickback schemes which led to the tax investigation, details from the progress report were leaked circuitously to us. I sent my associate Brit Hume to Alabama to double-check the facts and to discuss the tax investigation with Gerald Wallace.

"They have got 47 agents on me right now," Gerald said bitterly. "You all are trying to beat George Wallace. You're not interested in my tax returns." He added that federal agents had been after him "as long as George has been cussin' federal judges and most especially since he scared the hell out of Nixon and Humphrey."

We ran the tax story, which got a big play in Alabama. In the subsequent primary, George Wallace had a close call. He nosed out ex-Gov. Albert Brewer by a narrow 51.5 per cent of the vote.

Thereafter, the White House changed its strategy and sought to persuade Wallace to enter the 1972 presidential sweepstakes as a Democrat rather than an independent.

In May 1971, President Nixon visited Alabama and invited Wallace to ride with him on a flight from Mobile to Birmingham. No one will tell us what the two men said to each other during the plane ride. The subsequent events, therefore, may be merely coincidental.

But not long afterward, the tax case against Gerald Wallace was dropped and George Wallace announced he would run for President as a Democrat, not as an independent.

It was the last rubber at Castle Glamis. MacDuff, the best player in Scotland, wanted to get home. Hence his three no-trump call.

Lady MacBeth opened the 10 of hearts. MacDuff looked over dummy quickly. He saw that he could give himself two heart stoppers by putting up dummy's queen. He also saw that his host MacBeth would know this and might shift to a spade, so he played the nine-spot.

MacDuff didn't need two heart tricks. All he needed was to gain the lead; finesse successfully in diamonds; end the rubber and be on his way home.

MacBeth pulled out the seven of hearts; paused in thought; pushed it back and planked his ace on the table. He had seen what MacDuff was up to.

After that it was a simple matter to play his ace of spades; continue the suit and keep the rubber alive. "Well done, your lordship," said MacDuff who was always a good sport. "Ah! I was so!" said Lady MacBeth. "Play, on MacDuff!"

Warrensburg Voters Reject School Bond

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — Patrons of the Warrensburg R-6 School District rejected an $855,000 bond proposal and a 30-cent increase in the school tax levy in a special election Thursday.

The vote was 794 against and 492 in favor of the bonds, and the levy was beaten 794 to 488. It was the first election on the proposals.

The bond money would have been used to establish libraries at the high schools, construct an agri-business building and improve athletic facilities. The 38 cents would have made the levy $4.96 per $100 valuation.

Cancel Reception

A reception planned for Sunday at the Ramada Inn by the Bothwell Hospital Board of Trustees to honor Fred M. Lange and William A. Schien, former trustees, has been postponed due to illness in the family of one of the honored guests.

The reception will be held at a later date. It was reported.

Denying Most Exemptions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council stepped up its planning for Phase 4 wage-price controls Thursday while denying most requests for exemptions from the 60-day price freeze.

At the same time, the administration said the new embargo on soybean and cottonseed exports will be followed by controls on foreign corn shipments if exports of that commodity increase drastically.

The council demonstrated its toughness in enforcing the freeze by turning down 14 of the first 15 requests for exemptions from the freeze. Many of them involved food. The first one granted went to the Maui Meat Co. in Hawaii.

Council Director John T. Dunlop said the council is moving rapidly to get advice from the public on the shape of the mandatory wage-price controls that will follow the freeze.

He disclosed that council officials will meet with a group of nonfood retailers from across the nation Friday. The session, in Chicago, will be closed to the public. A similar meeting is set in San Francisco Monday.

In addition, Dunlop said President Nixon's consumer adviser, Virginia Knauer, is meeting with consumer groups Friday.

Dunlop also released a series of questions the council is asking all groups consulted on Phase 4. They include such questions as:

Should the program place tougher requirements on larger economic units? What are the appropriate wage standards for Phase 4 and what machinery should be used to administer wage stabilization? Should there be an explicit price target and what should it be? Should profit margins be limited?

Council officials repeated that they want to get over the consultations as soon as possible and announce the shape of Phase 4. They still held open the possibility that the freeze could be significantly shorter than 60 days.

With complaints of possible food shortages coming in, the council established two divisions of experts to determine whether the freeze is causing shortages of food and industrial commodities.

Dunlop said that if the administration had not put the embargo on soybean exports Wednesday, prices would have soared by the time the new crop came in this fall. This would have meant higher prices for meat, poultry and eggs or shortages, he indicated.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Clean Water Commission has withdrawn a regulation on septic tanks pending further study, Executive Director Jack Smith said Thursday at a public hearing.

The ruling, which said a septic tank could not be placed on a development less than 1 acre in size, was aimed primarily at heavily populated subdivisions with many septic tanks or sewage treatment devices on a 3-to-5 acre parcel of land, Smith said.

There is a danger of overflow and leakage into streams or ground water supplies, Smith said.

The rule, which was tabled by the commission, met resistance from developers in the lake areas.

Smith said the purpose was not to have it apply to farms or larger tracts such as 10 acres.

Reps. Flavel J. Butts, R-Camdenton, and Morris G. Westfall, R-Halfway, said the ruling confused people and they asked for a clarification.

Development in the Lake of the Ozarks area would be "paralyzed" if a builder couldn't put a septic tank on a development less than an acre in size, Butts said.

Butts and Westfall, whose districts include Bennett Springs and Pomme de Terre Reservoir, said developers would have trouble enticing retirees to buy homesites if they had to be at least 1 acre in size.

Officers Travel

Pettis County Sheriff's officers traveled to Montgomery County Thursday evening to bring Richard D. McCorkle, 520 West Second, to the Pettis County Jail.

McCorkle was reportedly taken into custody Thursday by Montgomery County officials at a roadside park. He is accused of issuing a no funds check of $134.81 to John Graves Food Service in late April while he was operating the Pacific Cafe.

Check Theft

Police are also investigating the theft of a motorcycle from Ron Cramer, 253 East Saline, sometime between Wednesday evening and Thursday morning.

Cramer said he parked the cycle, still running, in front of his home and went inside. When he came out a few minutes later the key had been removed from the ignition. Cramer said he then pushed the cycle around to the back of his home. When he went outside Thursday morning, the motorcycle was missing.

Foods

Serious supply problems existed before the June 13 freeze.

A year ago there was a genuine fear of price-depressing surpluses for wheat and feed grains. Prices paid producers for livestock were recovering but still had not begun to soar. The administration tailored farm crop production goals and programs to hold down production in 1972.
